RUMANIAN PREMIER IS SLAIN

REPEAL OF ARMS EMBARGO WAS ASKED

PRESIDENT CALLS UPON CONGRESS TO CHANGE PRESENT LAW

DECLARES PRESENT LAW IS VITALLY DANGEROUS TO AMERICAN NEUTRALITY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for repeal of the arms embargo provisions of the neutrality law because they are "most vitally dangerous to American neutrality, American security and American peace."

In a message delivered in person to an extraordinary session of the legislators, the chief executive said he could offer no hope that "the shadow over the world might swiftly pass."

Standing on the rostrum of a crowded house chamber, Mr. Roosevelt told senators and representatives he had assembled them to amend legislation which in his best judgment, "so alters the historic foreign policy of the United States that it impairs the peaceful relations of the United States with foreign nations."

The "crux" of the issue, he said, was repeal of the embargo, which forbids shipments of munitions to combatant nations, and a "return to international law."

The president took occasion, also, to renew his plea for non-partisanship during the present international crisis and to reassure the nation on his belief America could keep from being embroiled in Europe's conflict.

"Let no man or group in any walk of life," the president said, "assume exclusive protectorate over ~~the future well-being of~~ America—because I conceive that regardless of the party or section the mantle of peace and of patriotism is wide enough to cover us all.

"Let no group assume the exclusive label of the peace 'bloc.' We all belong to it."

Will Keep Out of War

Mr. Roosevelt said that "in my candid judgment" the United States would "succeed in these efforts" to keep out of war.

When and if the embargo is scrapped, the president said there were other phases of policy "reenforcing American safety" that should be considered.

He listed:

Restricting American merchant vessels, so far as possible, from entering danger zones.

Preventing American citizens from traveling on belligerent vessels.

Requiring foreign buyers to take transfer of title in this country to commodities bought by belligerents. (Cash-and-carry).

Preventing extension of war credits to belligerents.

Two other objectives, the chief executive said, have been attained amply under existing law. These are the regulation of collections of funds in this country for belligerents and the maintenance of a license system covering foreign trade in arms, ammunition and implements of war.

Choice of Methods to Congress

The president left to congress, however, a choice of methods by which these "safeguards" should be set up—"so long as the method chosen will meet the needs of new and changing day to day situations and dangers."

"To those who say that this program would involve a step toward war on our part," the chief executive asserted, "I reply that it offers far greater safeguards than we now possess or have ever possessed to protect American lives and property from danger.

"It is a positive program for giving safety. This means less likelihood of incidents and controversies which tend to draw us into conflict, as they did in the last war.

"There lies the road to peace."

After relating steps already taken to strengthen the nation's defenses, Mr. Roosevelt said he saw

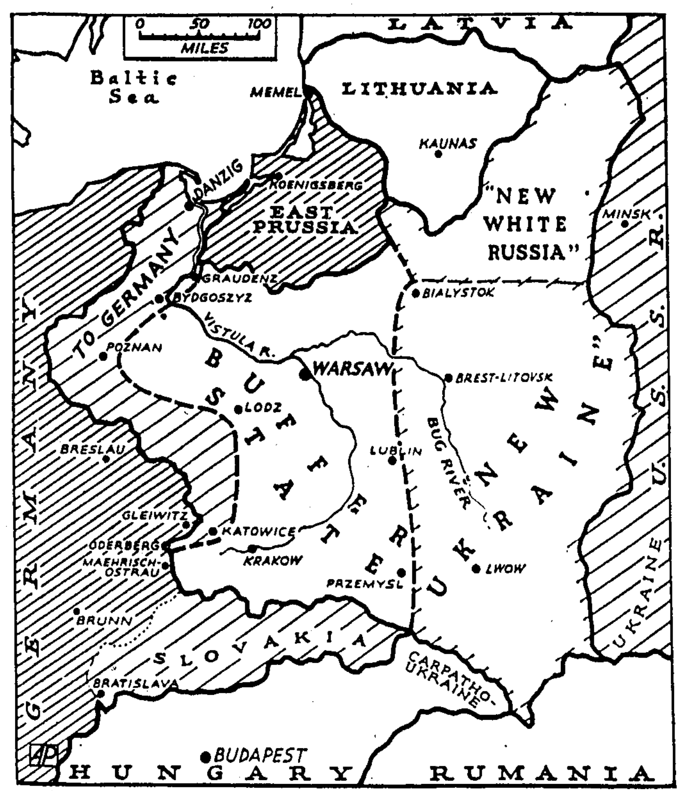
POLAND DIVIDED THIS WAY?



This picture of a new partition of Poland was drawn in maps of German origin distributed at Cernauti, Rumania—maps not regarded as official but to which some significance was attached. They indicated Russia would acquire a "New Ukraine" and a "New White Russia,' carved from the eastern part of Poland. Germany, according to the maps, would take a strip of territory from the western section, including the rich industrial areas. A buffer Polish state would remain, with no seacoast or outlet to the sea.

GERMAN BATTERIES POUND ENEMY LINES OF COMMUNICAITON

BELIEVED ALLIES HAVE DECIDED ON POINT FOR SEIGFRIED LINE ASSAULT

BASEL, Switzerland, Seut. 21.—(AP)—German batteries pounded enemy lines of communication along the western front today as reports of swift night movements by French troops hinted at plans for a major offensive.

Swiss military observers expressed belief the joint French-British command now has decided on the point to launch the first assault on the main forts of the Seigfried line.

Increased activity was reported on the part of both French and German patrols, with the primary object of taking prisoners and gaining information concerning troop concentrations.

These reports, and the fact that the French appeared to be consolidating their positions instead of attempting further local advances, increased Swiss belief a great battle is in the making.

Behind the Siegfried line the Germans were said to have stationed motorized units in strategic reserve positions.

Throughout the night German flares lighted up the no-man's-land.

French reports said a number of German night attacks had been repulsed in the vicinity of the Blies and Nied creeks east and west of Saarbruecken.

Account of air battles yesterday indicated French pursuit ships had engaged German fighters escorting observation planes.

Three French planes were reported downed in dog fights over French territory, but it was said German fliers were engaged so quickly observers could have

BELGIAN DEFENSES DESIGNED HOLD UP GERMAN INVASION

GERMAN ACTIONS AND DENIALS BRING FEAR TO BELGIUM AND FRENCH ALSO

By The Associated Press

A three-line ring of defense works whose backbone is a canal and whose key is the fortified city of Liege has been built by Belgium to hold up any German attempt to use the country as a military highway to France a second time.

In addition France has extended the Maginot line along the Belgian frontier with a complicated trench system, just in case Germany decides to take the Belgian route and breaks through.

That possibility now has become of grave concern for the French, who hear reports of German troop concentrations near Aachen (Aix-La-Chappelle), facing Belgium on the route German troops took in 1914.

But Belgians have expressed confidence that Germans would not have so easy a time against the new defense works and the standing army of some 100,000 men as they had 25 years ago when Liege was taken four days after the war started.

Military men say the Albert Canal, the Liege fortification system and the defense works extending to the northeast give the country a chance of holding back invasion until help can come.

GOEBBELS DENIES GERMANY PLANNING INVASION BELGIUM

NO INTENTION OF VIOLATING NEUTRALITY BELGIUM OR THE NETHERLANDS

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels today gave foreign correspondents a vigorous denial of allegations that Germany intended to violate the neutrality of Belgium, the Netherlands or Luxembourg.

"I am in a position to give a categoric, unequivocal and unconditional denial," said the propaganda minister in his first appearance before foreign newspapermen since Germany started her invasion of Poland Sept. 1.

"The German government never had, does not have now nor intends in the future to violate the neutrality either of Belgium or Holland."

To a question whether this also applied to Luxembourg, the tiny duchy at the northern end of present German-French battle lines, Goebbels replied:

"Yes, you may also include Luxembourg."

Goebbels alluded with a smile

CRISIS IN RUMANIA DUE ASSASSINATION PREMIER CALINESCU

BALKANS, ALREADY APPREHENSIVE, SHOCKED BY THE SLAYING OF OFFICIAL

By The Associated Press

President Roosevelt today asked a special session of congress to repeal the embargo on arms shipments to warring nations.

Speaking while war in Europe assumed a more menacing aspect, highlighted by the assassination of the Rumanian premier, he termed the embargo "wholly inconsistent with ancient precepts of the law of nations" and asked repeal to "keep us out of war."

Outlining a program for the legislature's consideration after repeal, the President urged belligerents be required to pay cash and transport their own purchases from American shores, that United States merchant shipping be kept from danger zones and travel by American citizens be restricted.

"There lies the road to peace," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

The embargo provision, he said, gives land powers an advantage over sea powers since the former are assured in advance that their sea adversary would be weakened by inability to buy supplies abroad.

As he spoke a new crisis arose in the Balkans over the assassination of Premier Armand Galinescu in Rumania where Germany, France and Britain—at war on Europe's battlefields—are struggling for Balkan mastery.

Troops Called Out.

Rumania called out troops to prevent a coup.

The slaying shocked the Balkans which apprehnsively watched the war that in three weeks has wiped out Poland.

Britain published a white paper on the exchange of British-German notes preceding hostilities.

Calinescu had been the foe of the pro-Nazi iron guard. Rumania legation sources in Budapest reported Iron Guardists had been agitating throughout Rumania since Germany invaded Poland

"Throughout Rumania there is terrible excitement," said a broadcast over the Rumanian government radio station. Then the broadcast was cut off.

Communications with Rumania were interrupted and correspondents were unable to give full details of the situation.

In Berlin, the army reported the eastern front had been cleaned up with the exception of four centers of resistance in Poland.

Another British freighter, the Kensington Court, was sunk by a submarine. The British government announced two Royal Air Force flying patrol boats had rescued the crew.

French sources said they expected a blow from Germany, but Swiss reports indicated France

WARSAW RADIO WENT SILENT SUDDENLY AT EARLY HOUR TODAY

SILENCE CAME AFTER THE BROADCAST OF SHELLING AND BOMBING OF CITY

BUDAPEST, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Warsaw radio lapsed into sudden silence early today shortly after what sounded like the explosion of artillery shells could be heard through its microphone.

The announcer had carried on far into the night despite the deep, periodic rumblings until the station suddenly went off the air half way through the playing of a Polish military air.

Temporarily, at least, the only communication between the German-besieged Polish capital and the rest of the world was ended.

Silence came after the station had broadcast a grim story of Warsaw being shelled and bombed as never before and predicted "there probably soon will be a big offensive against us."

The studio is in the center of Warsaw.

Four times yesterday the warning wail of air raid sirens could be heard above the calm voice of the announcer and four times the drone of diving airplanes came over the air.

The broadcaster said the raids were conducted by squadrons of 30 German planes.

Before silence again sealed Warsaw's fate, the radio reported a successful attack against a German force. Bu tit also admitted devastating blows from German cannon and warplanes.

Still defiant, Mayor Stefan Starzinski had appealed to the capi-

GERMAN ACTIVITY IN POLAND SLOWING DOWN CONSIDERABLY

ALL POINTS OF RESISTANCE SURROUNDED AND SURRENDER EXPECTED

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The army high command reported today only four centers of resistance to Nazi forces remained in Poland and Germans expected they would fall without shelling.

The command's belief the remaining resistance was negligible already had been indicated by the departure for the western front of Col.-Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, commander of the German army, to assume direction of the struggle against Great Britain and France.

The points still held by Poles, a high command communique said, included:

1. Warsaw, besieged capital of Poland.
2. Modlin, fortified center 18 miles northwest of Warsaw.
3. Gora Kalvarja, on the left bank of the Vistula 23 miles southeast of Warsaw.
4. On the Hela Peninsula, narrow finger of land poking out into the Gulf of Danzig. Its extremity is 19 miles northeast of Danzig.

German officers indicated no lightning strokes aainst these centers were planned, but rather, since they are surrounded, the Poles will surrender.

One of the generals in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's entourage, discussing the situation of Warsaw, said Tuesday:

"Our fuehrer does not think it worth while to risk the life of a single German soldier to take Warsaw. Cut off on all sides it has no alternative save to surrender.

"Why, then, should we shell it and give food—though unjustified—to anti-German propaganda that we are firing on women and children?"

Military men said the same

French Premier Broadcasts Defi To Hitlerism

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Premier Daladier, in a broadcast to the world tonight on France's determination not to abandon her fight against Adolf Hitler, associated the United States with his own country and with Britain in the failure to prevent "the German destruction of Poland."

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Premier Daladier broadcast to the world tonight a declaration of France's determination never to abandon her fight to aid Poland until Adolf Hitler's efforts "to dominate the world" have been crushed by a "complete victory" over the Nazi forces.

The stubby premier interrupted—as far as France was concerned—the worldwide broadcast of President Roosevelt's neutrality message to congress to declare with his own voice that France never would make peace until peace was established on a "solid, lasting basis."

REPORTS OF REVOLT IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA AGAINST GERMANY

BERLIN, HOWEVER, SAYS UPRISING REPORTS ARE SHEER NONSENSE

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—British government allegations of a serious" revolt in Bohemia and Moravia—parts of Czecho-Slovakia which Germany absorbed—were cited today as backing British hopes of enlisting Germany's anti-Nazis in the fight against Adolf Hitler.

(In Berlin, the British reports of an organized revolt were described as 'nonsense" by a spokesman for Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reich's protector for Bohemia and Moravia. He invited correspondents to visit Prague to see for themselves.

(The British did not give the sources of their information.)

A ministry of information communique said Britain had received authoritative information of a revolutionary movement had started last Sunday in Bohemia and Moravia and was continuing despite "ruthless" repressive measures.

"That this is not just a flash in the pan," the ministry said, "is shown by theu nanimity of purpose, the tenacity and the discipline of the participants."

It was recalled in London that

FRENCH REPORTING AIR VICTORIES ON WEST BATTLE FRONT

GERMANY REPORTED MASSING TROOPS AT AACHEN, NEAR BELGIAN BORDER

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Military dispatches today reported French and British air pilots had brought down an undetermined number of German planes in the past few days in a series of victorious dog fights with German fliers over the western front.

French communiques, military sources said, have been limited only to those enemy planes which have fallen behind the French lines. They said the number of Germans who crashed was known to be "substantially more."

These sources said it was "possible" some French planes in the air battles might have been those maufactured by United States aircraft firms and purchased by France.

The French war ministry's evening communique of yesterday announced definitely that one German plane had fallen behind French lines. It was recalled also that military dispatches last Monday reported one French pilot had brought down three enemy ships.

Air victories also had been reported previously during fighting in the Sierck sector September 15 when French planes were said to have driven German fighters out of the air.

War dispaches said today the French army was threatening approaches to Zweibruecken, Ger-

STRONG MAN BALKAN STATE SHOT DEATH BUT COUP PREVENTED

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

BUCHAREST, Sept. 21.—(6 p.m.—10 a.m., CST., via Copenhagen)—(AP)—Premier Armand Calinescu was shot and killed today by men officially identified as Iron Guardists and troops were called up at once to prevent a coup.

The assassination of Calinescu—known as Rumania's "strong man" for his suppression of the outlawed pro-Nazi Iron Guard organization—was attributed to conflicting national interests arising from the European war.

It came as German and Russian troops approached the Rumanian frontier in their occupation of Poland. Rumania got one-seventh of her territory from Russia in the World war settlement.

Calinescu was machine gunned in his automobile by masked men. Other masked men seized the Bucharest radio station but were subsequently arrested.

Late today a communique read over the station formally accused the slayers of being members of the pro Nazi Iron Guard.

"This afternoon, Premier Calinescu was murdered in a cowardly manner near his home," the communique said. "The murderers, who are members of the former Iron Guard, have been arrested."

It said a new premier already had been chosen but failed to give his name. He was to be sworn in late in the afternon. after which a meeting of the new cabinet would be held.

The communique announced "perfect order and calm reigns throughout the country."

Immediately after the death of the premier a Crown Council was called by King Carol to meet the resultant crisis in Rumania's position in internal and international affairs. It was still sitting late today.

Bitter Diplomatic Struggle.

The British-French allies and Germany were engaged in a bitter struggle, each side attempting to influence Rumania's policy to their advantage. Calinescu had been known as an advocate of political and economic cooperation with Britain and France.

Rumania's oil, needed by Germany's mechanized army and her air force, was the major prize.

(In Budapest Rumanian diplomats said the slaying was "highly significant just at a moment when German and Russian troops are approaching Rumania's northern frontier." Other Budapest sources said they believed a long-expected revolt of the iron guard had come. The Rumanian legation in Belgrade said after vain attempts to telephone Bucharest that it looked as if the iron guard already was in charge.)

The premier was driving in his car on Bucharest's main street, on his way to the Royal Palace, when he was shot.

His car was suddenly blocked, reportedly by three other machines. The three cars converged on that of the premier while a peasant cart blocked the road ahead.

Machine Gunned.

One car drew alongside. Masked men jumped out and opened fire with sub-machine-guns. Calinescu slumped in his seat. Bullets had riddled his chest and abdomen from side to side. The premier's chauffeur was killed instantly. Calinescu was rushed to University Hospital but died en route in a motor car.

Eight of the alleged assassins and accomplices have been arrested. The troops were called to surround their cells and public buildings and to guard against any attempt at a coup.

While the assassins were carrying out their assignment another band of armed, masked men seized the Bucharest radio station, shooting and wounding the an-

Bullets that killed Rumania's anti-Nazi "strong man" premier today may be signals for the old Balkan powder keg to explode again.

Armand Calinescu long had tried to hold off the spreading threat of German domination through Southeastern Europe. He was King Carol's choice to prevent the rise of the "Iron Guard" pro-Nazi fascists whom the government often said had German Nazi support, whether official or unofficial.

Germany today showed her strong hand when Rumania interned the fleeing Polish leaders, whom France and Britain asked her to allow free passage to them. Germany wanted President Ignace Moscicki, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz and Foreign Minister Josef Beck out of the war.

The 1914 war started in the Balkans with the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

The 1939 war is well started, but the Balkans still are the great big unknown quantity in the issue between Hitler and German's old enemies, Britain and France.

The killing of the premier in broad daylight as he was driven along a main Bucharest street comes with the suppressed Iron Guard Nazi movement rumbling inside the country and the massive old enemy Russia at her borders.

Rumania, seething inside, is under the direct pressure of Ger-

NEW ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS FOR SAFEGUARDING AMERICAN CITIES HAVE BEEN PLACED IN SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—About 300 new mobile anti-aircraft guns for which congress provided $23,685,000 are ready to safeguard American cities and vital military posts.

A year after work was started, officials said today nearly all the rapid-fire three-inch weapons had been tested, put in service or added to army reserves.

Aside from adding the anti-aircraft guns, the army and navy have taken numerous steps recently to reassure the protection of cities.

The reinforcement of fixed fortifications around New York, San Francisco and other coastal cities is going forward steadily in accord with a $65,000,000 sea coast defense program which congress adopted in 1936.

Expansion of the navy and the army air corps contributes materially to urban defenses.

Congress voted funds for 338 three-inch anti-aircraft guns last year after army offiicals testified they represented the most urgent defense deficiency. General Malin Craig, then chief of staff, predicted that in the event this country entered war, the demand for protection against air raids would be enormous.

The army was able to muster only 24 such mobile guns east of the Rockies less than a year ago. Since then, besides turning out the three-inch weapons, the war department has started large scale production of a smaller 37 millimeter gun and has been giving funds also for quantities of heavy machine guns, searchlights, listening apparatus and other technical equipment.

ALLIES AND GERMANS TOO WELL SET FOR WESTERN FRONT ACTION IS REASON FOR LACK ACTIVITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Allies and Germans are all set for action on the western front—so well set, in fact, that either would be courting disaster by employing undue haste in initiating a major offensive.

Hence the comparative inactivity so far.

There's no call for rush at this juncture. The crushing of Poland removes the necessity of an immediate allied attack to relieve pressure on the Poles. The Nazis still haven't broken away from Hitler's policy of not fighting the allies unless forced, on the grounds that Germany has no quarrel with France and England.

Curiously enough, despite the fact that the sprig of peace-on-my-terms olive which Hitler held out from Danzig was tossed back at him by the allies, Berlin still persists with peace propaganda. Yesterday there was another striking gesture of friendship towards France in a military funeral to French Lieutenant Louis Deschanel who was killed in action.

Evidently German hope of peace on their own terms isn't entirely dead. But the moment it becomes certain the war must continue—look out for fireworks.

Once the gloves are off it will be a nasty war. The horrors of modern airraids—the worlds awful nightmare—are in the offing.

British Premier Chamberlain nailed the imperial standard to the mast yesterday when he laid down England's war aims before his house of commons. He reiterated the determination to pay the allied debt of honor to Poland.

AN OPTIMIST IN DARK DAY SENDS CHALLENGE DOWN AGES *

World Today Hugging to its Heart the Great Assurances of Ancient Hebrew Prophet—Despite Gloomy Fears, There is a Good Time Coming.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Ours is a scared world. With war raging, myriads of gloomy prophets are predicting the collapse of civilization. The stories from Europe's battle fronts horrify all thoughtful persons. Japan's barbarism has made sensitive spirits sick at heart. The plight of the Jews under the Assyrian invasion of Isaiah's day was scarcely worse than their condition in many parts of the earth today.

Yet in the midst of that long-ago terror, the prophets of Jehovah dared to proclaim a message of optimism. They looked through and beyond the dark days in which they were living, and bravely affirmed a good time coming. They saw the providences of God working out beneficently. Their faith was greater than their fears.

Amidst injustice, oppression and misery, they still saw the ultimate triumph of righteousness and peace; and the coming of a Deliverer, who would establish a better way of life for mankind. In our time, preachers, publicists, professors and peace-loving plain people are still cherishing and echoing the great truth that some day swords will be beaten into plowshares. We believe that the forces of peace, whose strength is in the heart of the common man, are mighter than the war-mongers and war-makers. The present crisis and strain will produce such a demonstration of democracy in the world as has never been known before. The Hitlers and Mussolinis may have their little day; but tomorrow is with the people.

Waves and Tides

Watchers of the sea observe the waves, just as the public eagerly devours news items; but wiser ones give heed to the tide, which typifies the great rising of the common sentiments of humanity. The waves may be against us, and dash many a fair craft on the rocks; but the tide is with us. That man is ignorant of the real sentiment of our generation who does not perceive that everywhere—even in Japan—the populace is weary of wars and of all its ways. Silently, irresistibly, the tides of God, upon which the ancient Hebrew seers pinned their faith, are flowing and surging through the hearts of humanity. Baffled often, the desire and purpose of men of good will is yet to have its triumphant day. "They that be for us are more than they that be against us." All the ultimate and significant signs on the horizon point to a new world of peace and good will. Civilization is not going to collapse; it is going to be reborn.

Faith-filled folk should take their stand with Isaiah, and the other seers of a better order of life. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Such perversions of a normal order of living for human beings as fascism and communism and war, are only transitory." They sin against the deepest rights of man. Common people everywhere are friendly, kindly folk, without hatred for anybody. Their spirit is bound to prevail. And it is the duty of the democracies, in a time of noisy clamor and battle strife to stand steadfastly for the eternal forces which move with the irresistible certainty of the tides of God.

The Coming of a Child

Nearly a thousand years before Christ was born, Isaiah pictured Him as a Deliverer. Greater than the kings of Israel, or the rulers of Assyrian and Egypt, would be the Messiah—the "Anoited One," "the Christ." Here, in beautiful and familiar words, is the prophet's picture: "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God. The Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even forever. The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."

This light of the promised Messiah has burned brightly during the darkest periods of Jewish history. In the present bitter experiences of the Jews, religious papers report many are finding that Christ is the true Messiah, and that acceptance of Him is the one clearest solution of the ghastly problem that today confronts the Chosen People.

Isaiah portrayed the Coming One as being born a babe. Dr. J. H. Jowett once commented, "Who would have had sufficient daring of imagination to conceive that God Almighty would have appeared among men as a little Child! We should have conceived something sensational, phenomenal, catastrophic, appalling! The most awful of the natural elements would have formed His retinue, and men would be chilled and frozen with fear. But He came as a little Child."

Modern hospital-born babies are labelled at birth, to prevent mix-ups. But every child, however humbly born, is labelled "Possibility." Instinctively, mankind attaches a sanctity to infancy: "Women and children first," is the law in every emergency. Civilization's greatest horror over the bombings in Spain and China and Ethiopia, and in the present war, is the destruction of innocent childhood. In every baby, sentiment sees the infant Jesus, Who came as a child, and underwent all the normal experiences of our common life, that He might be a sympathetic sharer of man's lot. "We have not a great high priest who cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities."

Qualities of a Deliverer

In the memories of many of us there still ring the majestic strains of the oratorio's recitation of the titles of the Messiah, as given Him by Isaiah:

"Wonderful!
Counsellor!
Mighty God!
Everlasting Father!
Prince of Peace!"

How we need Him today as Counsellor! And as the Prince of Peace! His Way is the only way out. We have witnessed—and for the next three months shall see again, as we study the Life of Christ—the increase of His government over the earth and throughout the centuries. He is today the world's Hope, the only sure ground of optimism.

no need for additional legislation nor for further executive action under his proclamation of a limited state of national emergency.

Tried to Avert War

Mr. Roosevelt said the executive branch of the government had done its utmost, within a traditional policy of non-involvement, "to aid in averting the present appalling war."

"Having thus striven and failed,' he said, "this government must lose no time or effort to keep the nation from being drawn into the war."

Here he predicted success "in these efforts.'

Before closing, the president expressed his desire to be able to "offer the hope that the shadow over the world might swiftly pass." But he said:

"I cannot. The facts compel my stating, with candor, that darker periods may lie ahead."

Mr. Roosevelt said the disaster abroad was not of American making, but that "we find ourselves affected to the core, our currents of commerce are changing, our minds are filled with new problems, our position in world affairs has already been altered."

A moment later he asserted:

Citadel of Civilization

"Fate seems now to compel us to assume the task of helping to maintain in the western world a citadel wherein that civilization may be kept alive. The peace, the integrity and the safety of the Americas—these must be kept firm and serene."

Thus the president, for some of his audience, gave reassurances the United States would stand firmly behind the Monroe Doctrine.

His message also gave his backing to the neutrality proposals transmitted to congress at its last session by Secretary Hull.

Before Mr. Roosevelt drove to the capitol to address the congress called together only seven weeks after adjourning the regular session, 17 senators opposed to repeal of the arms embargo met to plan their strategy of opposition to revision of the neutrality act.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have outlined his position to the conference of Democratic and Republican leaders held in his executive offices yesterday afternoon. That gathering, according to other reports, produced no commitments on how congress stood with regard to the president's policy and this, too, appeared to be the situation in congress.

On these two points there was said to be general agreement, however:

1. That the first concern of all parties is to preserve American neutrality.
2. That revision of the present neutrality law, the core of which is the arms embargo, should receive consideration free of all politics.

Hopes for Short Session.

On high authority it was stated that Mr. Roosevelt had expressed the hope congress would finish its work on neutrality and adjourn speedily. This was in response to a suggestion made to him by Alf M. Landon, titular republican leader, that the national legislature should meet continually throughout the European war.

The President proposed that four congressional leaders remain in the capital after adjournment for constant consultation on the international siuation.

This quartette would consist of Senators Barkley of Kentucky, and McNary of Oregon, the democratic and republican leaders, and the corresponding chiefs of the house—Representative Rayburn of Texas, and Martin of Massachusetts.

On the neutrality issue, Mr. Roosevelt was said to have taken the position that if congress cared to legislate on various phases of the neutrality problem, such as American travel on belligerent ships, it was all right with him.

Powers Already Held.

But he explained that under emergency powers he already has control could be exercised over such things as travel and the entry of American vessels into war zones. In that connection it was noted that the state department controls issuance of passports and the treasury, through the customs service, may prevent sailings of ships.

The President made it clear, it was asserted, that the only thing he really wants from congress is repeal of the arms embargo.

The administration's position was described as this:

It would be more advantageous for the country and in furtherance of desires to keep it out of war, if the President used his present powers instead of being required to operate under some hard and fast piece of legislation which congress might enact. The administration wants something elastic so that recognition can be given unusual cases.

Administration leaders and other proponents of repeal thought the president could win out eventually, perhaps in a month or six weeks if the issue were confined to the embargo. A bi-partisan opposition bloc in the senate, however, was determined to prevent such a victory by all legitimate parliamentary means.

Congressmen were rushing back to Washington to be in their seats for the opening of the senate and house at 11 a. m. (CST). Extra police precautions were taken to protect the president on his trip to and from the capitol for his brief address about 1 p. m.

Without waiting for the president's message, administration lieutenants, appraised of his general position at a bi-partisan white house conference of national leaders yesterday, were starting work on a bill substituting a "cash and carry" system for the arms embargo and restricting such things as travel in war zones and belligerent credits in this country.

Meeting to Devise Strategy

At the same time, advocates of retaining the arms embargo called a meeting in the office of Senator Nye (R-ND) to devise strategy.

Some of those who attended the white house meeting yesterday reported Mr. Roosevelt indicated he preferred scrapping the entire neutrality act and returning to the normal processes of international law, but was told such a program could not succeed.

An indication he was ready, however, to go along with the six-point neutrality program outlined last July by Secretary of State Hull was given by Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee, one of the conferees.

Pittman asked his committee to meet Saturday. He said he would try to substitute his bill, incorporating Hull's six points, for the house-approved measure on which no senate action was taken during the regular 1939 session. Hull's program would:

Hull's Program

1. Prohibit American ships from entering combat areas.
2. Restrict travel by American citizens in such areas.
3. Require that goods exported from the United States to belligerent countries be preceded by the transfer of title to the foreign purchasers (combined with the first point, this means "cash and carry")
4. Continue existing restrictions on loans and credits to belligerents to normal short term commercial transactions.
5. Regulate solicitation and collection in this country of funds for belligerents.
6. Continue the munitions control board and the licensing system for importation and exportation of arms, ammunition and implements of war.

Pittman predicted his committee, which voted 12 to 12 last session to defer action on neutrality legislation, would approve a bill.

The White House conference was attended by Hull, Vice President Garner, 11 senators and representatives, and Alfred M. Landon and Frank Knox, republican opponents of the Roosevelt-Garner slate in the 1936 election.

Statement By Early

At its conclusion Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, dictated the following statement, which he said all had agreed on:

"The conference with unanimous thought discussed the primary objective of keeping the United States neutral and at peace.

"There was complete accord that in congressional and executive action the whole subject and its many ramifications be dealt with in a wholly non-partisan spirit.

"It was made clear that the most important subject is the repeal of the embargo and a return to processes of international law.

"Finally, the conference discussed the methods of dealing with the six points relating to Americans traveling on belligerent ships, cash and carry, etc.

"It was the consensus of opinion that the senate committee on foreign relations take up the legislation as soon after the congress convenes as possible."

All conferees agreed the discussion was held with utmost good feeling.

Vice President Garner was reported to have told the conference he always had favored international law as the foundation for neutrality and the President gave assent to this view.

Landon was said to have advocated that congress remain in session as long as the European war lasts.

Would Be Law Violation

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 21.—(AP)—An authority on international law asserted today repeal of the arms embargo by the United States would be a "direct violation" of international law.

Henry S. Fraser, technical advisor to the late George W. Wickersham on the League of Nations committee for the codifictaion of international law in 1925 and 1927, in an interview (Post-Standard) said if the embargo is repealed "Germany will instantly have the right under international law to take steps of reprisal and retaliation against American ships."

Such reprisals might be taken against ships even in coastwise trade, and even if they were not carrying contraband, he said, in a statement and added:

"There is an established principle of international law that a neutral may not, after the outbreak of war, change its legislation for the purpose of assisting one of the belligerents."

War Profits Tax Measure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Senator Connally (D-Texas) said today he would seek action on a "war profits" tax measure at the special session of congress.

"A war profits bill is one of the best methods for insuring peace and at the same time strengthening national defense," he said.

"We would draft men and materials in time of war and there is no reason not to draft money. No one in time of war or an emergency is entitled to inordinate profits."

Connally said he would seek to "step up" existing tax rates including a tax on "all profits above 5 per cent for corporations, running up to 50 per cent of profits above this amount."

The canal, 250 feet wide and 15 to 20 feet deep is the last rampart of the three-line defense system.

The first line, along the 55 miles of Belbium's common frontier with Germany, is based on fortresses at Eupen and Malmedy which have been linked and extended by a system of prepared trenches, blockhouses and reinforced concrete machine gun nests.

Behind this is a stronger line of fortifications about which little is known except that it was started about the same time as the French Maginot line and follows the same general principles of construction.

Then comes the canal, which runs north from Liege to the Netherlands frontier and then bends back, paralleling the border to Antwerp.

BRITISH

Eduard Benes, former president of the Czecho-Slovak republic, told Prime Misister Chamberlain only two days after Britain's declaration of war:

"We Czecho-Slovak citizens consider ourselves as being also at war with Germany's military forces. x x x"

Press Backs Chamberlain.

The British press, meanwhile, gave unanimous endorsement to Prime Minister Chamberlain's address before the House of Commons yesterday, in which he answered Adolf Hitler's Danzig speech would be "the utmost of which and asserted Britain's war efforts she is capable.'

Labor also gave its support to the aim outlined by Chamberlain.

In a speech broadcast to the Empire, Arthur Greenwood, acting leader of the labor opposition in parliament, declared "the monster of tyranny must be strangled forever."

In another broadcast to the defenders of Warsaw, Count Raczynski, Polish ambassador in London, predicted last night that a new Polish army being organized in France would 'return with victorious banners" to the homeland.

The press estimated one-fifth of Germany's submarines large enough to operate on trade routes had been put out of action.

Another government communique said nearly 200,000 tons of contraband valued at about $2,000,000 had been seized since the outbreak of hostilities, depriving Germany of vital ores and petroleum products.

Bremen Reported Captured.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Reports the liner Bremen, pride of Germany's merchant fleet, had been captured by the Royal navy and escorted into a British port gained prevalence today in the absence of government denials.

(In Berlin for the third time in a week the Bremen was reported to have reached Murmansk, Soviet Russian port on the Arctic ocean. The latest report was said to come from "a competent neutral.")

The British Press Association, commenting on the reports, said stories that the Bremen was on the way to England had been current for several days.

"Though no official confirmation was forthcoming in London this morning," the Press Association said, "the story of the liner's capture was not denied."

Refuse Accept Ultimatum

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A British white paper on exchanges with the German government tonight said the German reply to the British ultimatum of September 3 stated a refusal "to receive, accept, let alone fulfill demands in the nature of ultimata made by the British government."

The German reply also said "we shall answer any aggressive action on the part of England with the same weapons and in the same form," declared Britain had rejected proposals from Premier Mussolini which might have saved peace and added "the British government therefore bear responsibility for all the unhappiness and misery which have now overtaken and are about to overtake many peoples."

Victory British Objective

LONDON, Sept. 21. (AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax today declared "we must not undertake anything tht does not directly contribute" to victory in the European war, in commeenting on the failure of Poland to get help.

Speaking in the house of lords, Lord Halifax said:

"One of the major tragedies of the last few weeks was that we should have had to watch the resistance of a gallant nation overborne without ourselves being able to render such direct assistance as might have produced different results. I have felt it every hour and every moment.

"But we must not lose sight of our main objectiee in this war—victory—and we must not undertake anything that does not directly contribute to that victory or which might mitigate against it."

Leslie Burgin, minister of supply, at the same time told the house of commons of creation of a war supply council and broad plans to use "every ounce of endeavor and ton of output" in Britain in the drive to win the war.

Giving the nation a glimpse of the extent of the weapons Britain was forging, Burgin declared his department had placed orders for war supplies exceeding 70,000,000 pounds (currently $277,200,000) since the outbreak of hostilities.

many, at the upper end of the Blies river valley.

These advices reported French advance units had fought numerous pitched battles with German patrols in the Zwiebruecken zone and further west, near Saarbruecken.

Each Side Seeking Prisoners

Zweibruecken, about 16 miles from Saarbruecken, lies five miles within Germany and Saarbruecken two miles.

These reports indicated each side was seeking prisoners in the gun-bristling zone between the northern reaches of the Maginot and Siegfried lines from who to pry secrets of strategy and troop disposition.

The morning war ministry communique, in much the same laconic style as previous annnouncements, said there was "local activity by advance guards and artillery actions on both sides."

British and French staffs were in constant contact, apparently studying a threat which many observers saw in the reported massing of German troops at Aachen, Germany, near the Belgian and the Netherlands borders.

Col. Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, German chief of staff, was reported to have left Germany's Polish front for the west and the Germans were said to have concentrated from 1,500 to 2,000 heavy bombing planes near Aachen.

Aachen Is Key Point

Aachen, about 85 miles north of the present fighting zone and 270 airline miles from London, was regarded by military observers as meaning one of three things—that a repetition of the 1914 strategy might be attempted, that Aachen merely had become a transfer point for movement of troops into the Seigfied line or that the Germans might try a "counter-blockade" against British and French ports through air attacks in conjunction with submarine operations in the English channel.

The French appeared more concerned with the third possibility, on the ground Germany was beginning to feel the pinch of British naval blockade and might be on the verge of a major retaliatory blow.

Three major land routes pass through the Aachen district, paralleling each other until they reach the Meuse river where on the north they reach Liege(Belgium. It was there in 1914 that Kaiser Wilhelm's great offensive started.

Aachen also could become a springboard for a drive by way of the Netherlands. The form of warfare henceforth on the western front undoubtedly depended on developments at Aachen.

to his presence as evidence he was neither dead nor captive nor out of sympathy with Adolf Hitler's war aims, as some reports had alleged.

"I guess you don't need a denial about my person," said the propaganda chief. "My answer to British lying propaganda is my propaganda on which you have seen evidence in these past weeks, I think."

Goebbels called the propaganda of the British information ministry 'childish and laughable."

"It does not in the least disturb our sovereign feeling of security," he said.

The propaganda minister, who looked rather tired, further denied "completely and unreservedly" all reports of uprisings in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

Large Crowds At Tri-State Fair

AMARILLO, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The annual Tri-State Fair continued showing to banner crowds today.

Panhandle-Plains milking shorthorns faced some of the outstanding herds of Mid-western states but came through with flying colors to keep both grand championship banners in home territory. Both banners will fly from the farm of Miles Milhoan and Sons of near Wildorado, whase entries took the bull and cow championships.

William P. Hopkins of Amarillo showed the champion Holstein bull and the Tierra Blanca farms of near Canyon exhibited the champion female Holstein.

Gov. John E. Miles of New Mexico will head a big fair delegation from that state tomorrow.

HOLDS NO WAR AIMS AGAINST FRANCE AND BRITAIN HE STATES

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

DANZIG, Sept. 19. (AP)—Adolf Hitler assured France and England today he had "no war aims" against them, but declared Poland as created by the Treaty of Versailles "never again will rise."

He warned the western powers Germany never would "capitulate" and was prepared for as much as seven years of war if necessary.

In a speech of an hour and 14 minutes, one of his best oratorical efforts, the German fuehrer dwelt at length on what he called his efforts "to bring about friendly relations" with Britain and France.

He spoke in the medieval Artushof as the climax of his first visit to Danzig since he gathered the former free city into the reich and of a frenzied welcome by the populace.

Hitler declared Germany and Russia, Europe's "two greatest nations, instead of being troublemakers, are going to organize peace in the East."

"In the West and South," he asserted, "Germany made important concessions hoping to bring about definite peace in Europe."

We believe we would have been successful had downright war agitators not always upset our efforts" he shouted.

Hitler said Soviet Russia concurred in his promise that the Poland of the post-Versailles days would not "rise" again. As Europe's "two greatest nations," Russia and Germany are the only ones "entitled to re-establish law and order in Eastern Europe."

Referring to British assertions the war might last for three years, Hitler said "it will be dependent upon us if the war lasts that long."

"If it should last three years the word capitulation will not stand at its end, nor will it stand at the end of the fourth, fifth, sixth or seventh year, for they (allies) are not facing a Germnay of Bethmann-Holweg, (the 1914 German chancellor), but a Germany of Friedrician time (meaning Frederick the Great)."

Does Not Want Ukraine.

For what was believed the first time, Hitler publicly stated he does "not want the Ukraine"—the Russian territory which, on the basis of his own book "Mein Kampf," many believed to be the kernel of his eastern policy.

This statement, he said, should have a "quieting effect" upon the Edens and the Churchills—outstanding British opponents of a policy of "appeasing" Germany.

As he concluded his speech Hitler admitted the German people were not "displaying the same enthusiasm as in 1914 but down deep they have the enthusiasm to win the war."

"My offer to England you know," he said. "I wanted to achieve a real friendship x x x but if England today thinks it is necessary to make war on Germany it will be disappointed."

Britain, Hitler said, has "revealed its real war aims—destruction of the Nazi regime."

The fuehrer, returning from inspection of the German forces invading Poland, was received at Renneberg by Albert Forester, the Danzig Nazi leader who spoke for Hitler in the Free City before its annexation.

Will Settle Situation.

"Russia and Germany will settle this (Polish) situation and this will result in the removal of the tension," he declared.

However, he expressed a determination to continue the war as long as he was forced, saying the word "surrender" would not be uttered.

"Nor at the end of the sixth or the seventh year," he shouted. "The generation of today is not the generation of Bethmann-Hollweg."

Earlier he had said the Germany of today "no longer is a country to which ultimatums can be dictated."

"We will give bomb against bomb, not only one but 500 bombs," he shouted.

Reviewing the events leading up to Germany's invasion of Poland, Hitler in an international broadcast, carried in the United States by NBC, welcoming Danzig back into the reich, said the state of affairs became "impossible" in September after he had believed in August it would be possible to come to an understanding.

He said he had suffered much from Poland in the last six years, but he had not sent them an ultimatum.

Citing attempts by Premier Mussolini to bring a peaceful settlement of the dispute, he said, England intervened. Then he shouted: "England sent an ultimatum to Germany, but the day is past when anyone can send an ultimatum to the reich."

Sought Solution

Hitler said he earlier had attempted to find a "reasonable solution to the problem," but indicated it became impossible with the death of Poland's Marshal Joseph Pilsudski.

He had sought, he said, to establish borders in the west and south and to make an agreement with Pilsudski which had as its purpose amicable relations between the Poles and Germans.

"As long as Pilsudski lived this was possible," he said.

The fuehrer said he was depressed by suffering the Nazis endured at the hands of an inferior state, "while Germany was a superior state."

He told the world, in an international broadcast, that nations doubting the word of German statesmen should also be critical of the statesmen of the countries which forced the Versailles treaty upon the Germans.

The Versailles peace offers, he said, spelled "stupidity," and cast doubt on the sanity of the men who made them.

Poland sought to make Poles out of German inhabitants of that country, he cried, and asked what England, France or America would have done under those circumstances.

Introduced By Forster

He was introduced by Albert Forster, Nazi leader of Danzig, who said Hitler had corrected the "injustices of the Versailles treaty."

A silence fell over the crowd a moment later when Hitler, speaking at first in a calm voice, began addressing them.

This great moment, the fuehrer said, was not for Danzig alone, but for all the German people.

The fate of Danzig, Hitler said, was the fate of all Germany.

The World war, he continued, "made no sense."

The peace imposed on the Germans at Versailles, Hitler said, had worked great oppression, but the time had come for them to to live again, he added.

His voice rose to high emotional tensity at times.

If the world outside Germany thinks it should not believe in the word of German statesmen, Hitler continued, it should also be critical of the statesmen of the countries which forced the peace terms upon the Germans.

The peace offers made at the time of Versailles spelled "stupidity," Hitler said, and cast doubt upon the sanity of the men who made them.

States were cut up and destroyed by those peace terms, der fuehrer went on.

Held German Culture

All the Polish territory taken away from Germany at the end of the World war held the best in German labor and culture, he said.

"Only those who culturably created have the right to exist," he said.

He said he had attempted in the past to find "a reasonable sloution to the problem."

He said he tried to establish borders in the west and in the south and had tried to make an agreement with Pilsudski which had as its purpose amicable relations between the Poles and the Germans.

"As long as Pilsudski lived this was possible," he said.

At this point Hitler said that what had depressed him and caused him suffering was that Nazis had had to suffer at the hands of an inferior state, while "Germany was a superior state."

Poland tried to make the German inhabitants of the Polish territory into Poles, he shouted.

"What would England, France or America have done under similar circumstances?" Hitler asked turning to the matter of the Polish corridor, which separates Germany from East Prussia.

Poland had received proposals from Hitler which he said he thought he should never have made and which he tought he would have difficulty explaining to his people.

Cannot Understand

"I cannot understand why Poland did not accept those proposals and the German people today are happy they did not accept them."

Instead of accepting them, Hitler said, the Poles turned toward London.

He claimed Polish newspapers published stories the problem was not of Danzig, but one of boundaries and whether the Poles should defeat Germany in front of or "in back of Berlin."

As he continued his voice rose to the shrill pitch characterizing him in moments of excitement.

"The man who had spoken thusly," Hitler said, "was a Polish general who has deserted his army."

The Poles were told they could resist Germany, and if they were not strong enough they could in any case expect the help of others.

Hitler said English statesmen like Churchill, Eden, Duff-Cooper and others always preached war.

"In September the state of affairs became impossible, and yet in the days of August I believed it was still possible to come to an understanding."

He said he went to Berlin and "waited and waited" and even worked out some new proposals, but "nothing happened except a general mobilization by Poland."

Been Extremely Patient

"For years I have been extremely patient," he went on.

For years Hitler asserted he begged to change the state of affairs, but he knew 'an end must come."

At one time peace again seemed possible, he said, when Mussolini made proposals to France, but England intervened, he said, and amid thunderous shouts, continued:

"England sent an ultimatum to Germany, but the day is past when anyone can send an ultimatum to the reich."

In the last six years Hitler said he had suffered much from Poland but he had not sent them an ultimatum.

"Poland chose war, and the statesmen of the west told her that Germany was poorly equipped and that moreover there was social unrest," Hitler said.

"Eighteen days have passed and the fact is that they were beaten by a race of men," he thundered, while the crowd took up his enthusiasm anew and cheered.

"They have been beaten and at this moment countless columns of Poles are retreating."

Hitler Cites Figures.

Hitler cited figures to back up his assertions that thousands of prisoners had been taken and said it was only a matter of hours before the Poles would be completely beaten.

"The statesmen have been shown what the German army can do and now they ought to have the proper point of view."

"The German troops have done their duty on the land as well as in the air," Hitler declared.

Germany always has been invincible, he said, and the Germans have shown again their invincibility in this war with their unsurpassed weapons, their motorized units and their great air force.

"We will give bomb against bomb, not only one but 500 bombs."

The crowd roared its approval.

It must be admitted, he said, that the Poles were responsible for many atrocities.

"Women were massacreed, men were massacred, and their eyes were stabbed out and they were killed when they lay wounded," he asserted.

He said he had given orders to the air force to conduct their warfare humanely, but they had been ambushed, he declared.

"Here also will my patience come to an end," he said.

Russian Entry.

Russia entered Poland only to protect her minorities, Hitler said. The attempted agreement between Russia and England had failed, he continued, but Germany and Russia had come to an agreement.

"But I wish to make one explanation," he said, "Russia will remain what is it, and Germany will remain what it is.

"We have made the greatest and beset arrangement between ourselves," he said.

"The nightmare of the British statesmen should now be dismissed," he said, referring to what he described as their charges that he aimed at world conquest.

"Our interests are very limited, but we shall protect them against any man, and that we will not be allowed to let ourselves be toyed with in this respect, I think the past eighteen days have shown.

"Russia and Germany will settle this situation and this will result in the removal of the tension."

Germany was described as wanting to "achieve a lasting peace."

"We have no war intentions against either England or France," he asserted.

He tried to arrange and have friendly relations with Italy, he said, and succeeded, and tried to do the same thing with France.

"My offers to England are known, they were refused, and England thinks she must have war with Germany. I can only reply this: Poland will never arise as it was arranged in the treaty of Versailles."

Real Cause of War

"Now the real causes of the war must be told to everybody. First it was Poland. Then it was the German regime and even I had the honor of being named."

Any German regime approved by Churchill, Eden, Duff-Cooper and others would be intolerable to the German people," Hitler shouted.

"I am proud to be attacked by them. If they think they can alienate the German people from me they are wrong and stupid.

"I have not educated the German people in vain for the last twenty years."

At this point Hitler had been speaking an hour.

Since the war is going to last "three years," Hitler said he could only express sympathy for the French soldiers.

If it should last that long the word "surrender" would not be there, he continued.

"Nor at the end of the sixth or the seventh year.

"The generation of today is not the generation of Bethmann-Hollweg."

If there are any people who are going to be split up, it won't be the German people," he said.

"We will not be misled by the propaganda of others."

"We will fight as our adversaries will.

Sea Force

"One country claims to have a sea force which cannot be attacked, but before long we also shall have a sea force which cannot be attacked." In principle, he added, Germany had carried through its determination not to attack women and children, but there were cases when the wounding and killing of noncombatants could not be avoided. For the future, he promised Germany would be humane in its conduct of the war.

"We will act as others act towards us. England's objective is not only the German regime but also the German men and women and children.

"It has been said Germany should be destroyed, and the first treaty of Versailles was enacted for that purpose. Possibly a second treaty would attempt the same thing.

"I wish to express my thanks to the German people. They have given us proofs of their courageous will."

Enthusiasm of Soul.

The people's enthusiasm is an "enthusiasm of the soul," he said, and they would "conduct this war as they conducted the other war at the front."

"We do not need any hurray patriotism."

"Come what may we are not better than our forbears and we will make the same sacrifices. We will carry our battle on and show we are strong. (Danzigs) sons fought in the great war and had to make many sacrifices after that war. Much has been changed in the German reich itself. Once it was a state of caste. Now it is a state of people."

"Danzig people, we now accept you into our eternal community which you shall never leave again."

Generations, he said, may come and go and always remember the past sad twenty years "of this city."

"This German state, the confederation of all the German tribes will forever fight together," he yelled, and the crowd responded with "Sieg Heil!"

A band broke into music. The chancellor had finished his speech. He had spoken one hour and fifteen minutes.

SOIL CONSERVATION SUBJECT DISCUSSION MEETING ROTARIANS

Soil conservation in Navarro county was discussed by R. C. Jernigan, superintendent of the Corsicana Soil Conservation Service unit, at Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at the Navarro Hotel.

R. L. Harris and Charles Willman had charge of today's program. President Joe E. Butler presided. Visitors today included Jake Hudson, John Ackery of Waxahachie, and W. W. Love. Mr. Harris introduced the speaker.

Mr. Jernigan said the problem of conserving natural resources has been facing every one in this country for the past several years. What to do about it has not been definitely decided, he said. The speaker pointed out that many farms, once fertile and productive, have been laid bare by soil erosion. This became so serious that in 1933 the congress of the United States established the Civilian Conservation Corp and added that in 1935 the people of Corsicana, seeing the need for soil conservation, secured one of these camps.

It has been determined, he continued, by state-wide experiments there are certain measures that can be taken to keep soil from shifting, and at the same time retain valuable moisture. He outlined several ways in which this problem has been combated by state workers through the co-operation of the farmers.

Concluding, he explained in detail the many steps undertaken to re-establish productivity of the farms. He added that the time was coming when state aid would be impossible to the individual farmer, thereby forcing the farmer to do this work for himself.

Dr. Deen Allen And Prof. Joel Trimble Plan Cowboy Band

Here is an opportunity for all potential horn tooters to play in a band.

Dr. Deen Allen, the old maestro, has been designated to dig up a dozen or two musicians of past and present bands to form a cowboy band for the opening day parade of the Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural Show Tuesday, October 3. Dr. Allen will be assisted in this enterprise by Prof. Joel Trimble.

It is pointed out by Dr. Allen anyone able to blow a horn can qualify for this band—whether one can read music or not. All former band members are cordially invited to participate in this event. There will be only one rehearsal.

Last year one of the big features of the parade was the cowboy band organized by these same leaders.

All interested are requested to get in touch with Dr. Allen or Prof. Trimble immediately.

CONSTITUTION'S BACKERS

The United States Constitution has just had another anniversary, the 152nd since its signing on September 17, 1787. That remarkable document should have greater interest for us today than ever before. In a proclamation concerning it, Governor Lehman of New York said:

"This code of fundamental law has stood the trying test of time. Designed for the government of a people living in a simple agricultural and handicraft economy, it has proved capable of growing as well as our territories beyond the seas. Based on principles of full civil and religious liberty and of fairness and exact justice to all, the Constitution has come to symbolize our American way of life.

"The creation, adoption and application of the Constitution has shown and still shows that difference of opinion may be settled through honest discussion and the exercise of reason. The courage and intelligence of the framers of the Constitution stand as an inspiration to us for all time."

No document alone, however excellent, could achieve such glory as has our Constitution unless it had the support and determination of the people whose basic law it was. In honoring the Constitution and its framers, we may also honor the succeding generations of Americans who have continued to value its principles and have sought to apply them with increasing understanding and faith.

PROFITEERING

The most alarming war scare in this country lately, to most Americans, has been the soaring of commodity prices. Both on the Stock Exchange and in the grain and provision markets there have been bull movements that seem to most people unnecessary and disquieting. The food threat reaches more people than the stock rise, and has more immediate effect.

It is well known that there is plenty of food in this country. Lately people were complaining of huge surpluses of many kinds. Very likely Europe may soon require a good deal more in the way of American provisions than it has been taking, but there is certainly no shortage yet existing and none in sight.

The tendency of the present movement is to create an artificially high price level and enrich a comparatively few at the expense of the general public. Both the government and the governing bodies of the exchanges should look into this matter and adopt reasonable rules to prevent profiteering.

NIGHT DRIVING

Motorists, especially new drivers, should have special instruction in driving at night, says the American Medical Association, because records show that night accidents are three times as frequent as those in the daytime. The advice is worth heedng, even though the danger is said to be considerably lessened by improved headlights in the new cars.

Not only is visibility much less at night, say the experts, but different manner of driving is necessary. There is much more danger of falling asleep at the wheel; and even if the driver can keep awake, he is likely to be more tired and less alert than during the daylight hours. The menace of drunken drivers is worse at night, because drinking occurs mostly in the evening.

Two simple and practical suggestions are given. First, make sure that the headlights are clean and have good bulbs in them, so as to throw a clear light on the road. Second, lower the speed, so as to be able to stop more quickly in case of danger.

JUST FOLKS

FORCE AND CHANCE.

Said he: "This only I believe:
All things have come by chance.
At birth an impulse men receive by which they march and dance
The stars and planets hold their course,
Not by intelligence, but force."

And hearing this I looked about
To find a force so true
That it could blow, day in and out
The sunrise that we view.
But all the works of force I found
With blackened ruins strewed the ground.

And then I followed chance to learn
If she could throw the dice.
Getting from cubes that spin and turn
The perfect total twice.
But chance went tumbling to defeat
When asked her triumphs to repeat.

Nothing in force can I admire.
To chance my heart is cold.
Something more glorious I desire
My love and faith to hold.
To me existence is a sign
Of an intelligence divine.

SPY HUNT

It is probably right and necessary for our government to turn Mr. Hoover's G-men loose on the trail of spies and plotters in this country. It may be justifiable to carry on such espionage in all our states and cities. But this is a delicate job. And isn't it throwing the switch pretty wide open when all police officials, sheriffs and other law enforcement officers in the United States are urged to give the Federal Bureau of Investigation "any information obtained by them relating to espionage, counter-espionage, sabotage, subversive activities and violations of the neutrality act?"

This comment is a gentle warning against the danger of excessive zeal in the discharge of such duties. Many of us remember the last war, and the extension of spy-hunting then to large numbers of private and semi-private groups. We remember how various good people assumed the right to probe rudely into the private and legitimate affairs of thousands of patriotic citizens. And so we cannot get up much enthusiasm about wholesale and possibly irresponsible counter-espionage at this stage of the game.

The only safe rule in a democracy is to do our level best to keep it a democracy. A good way to do so is to avoid encouraging unduly the natural tendency of some of us to pry into the private affairs of the rest of us, or to accept mere personal suspicion as evidence of wrong doing.

There are some good things in the United States Constitution touching on these matters, things learned by the Founding Fathers through bitter experience. They should be familiar to all of us, official or unofficial.

HORNETS

A story in the papers the other day told of a farmer who found a hornets' nest on the wall of his barn and stopped what he was doing to get rid of it. He fastened some newspapers to a broom, lighted the papers and applied the torch to the nest.

The hornets pourcd out, fierce and angry, and attacked the farmer and chased him away down the road and into the weeds. When he finally got rid of them, after being badly stung, and went back to the barn to resume his work, he found that the papers he used to burn up the hornets had set the barn on fire, and it was burning to the ground.

One reader of that story says it somehow made him think of Belgium in 1914 and Poland in 1939.

STEEL VIOLIN BOW.

Joseph Primavera of Philadelphia, a violin maker who comes from a line of violin makers, has now made a bow of stainless steel which is said to be lighter than the usual horsehair bow and better in other ways. He has been experimenting for ten years along this line, trying various metals and alloys. Silver, aluminum, ordinary steel, and other metals all failed to meet requirements.

Recently Mr. Primavera procured fine wires of a special stainless steel alloy. There are 150 steel hairs in each bow instead of the used 110 horse-tail hairs. The steel hairs are uniform in their microscopic roughness, which makes them superior to the natural hairs.

A finer new rosin has been perfected for these bows, which adds to their success.

The new bow is a product of the machine age. Stradivarius had no such steel alloy to work with. But it is not wholly a machine product. The knowledge and skill of scientists and musicians and violinmakers have all been combined in this creation. The machine has aided, not supplanted, art.

STUDY AT SEA

Yachting is supposed to be a lazy life, especially in mental operations. But William McDonnell Pond, head of a boys' school in Cambridge, Mass., has made an interesting discovery. It is that boys will study, or can be made to study, harder at sea than on shore.

For several years he has been conducting study cruises for boys preparing for college. He has a 98-foot schooner with a Diesel motor and several thousand feet of canvas. The procedure is to start from Boston, sailing in leisurely fashion southward along the Atlantic coast to Miami, thence through the West Indies and along the Central American coast. Every morning the boys have several hours of sailor work. Then they get four hours of book work, and afterward are free for fishing, swimming, and so on. They pay well for it, and are said to acquire more book learning in seven months than is usually got in a longer school year on land. At any rate, they nearly always pass their Harvard exams.

Apparently one thing America needs is a big fleet of such study ships.

Better not bet any money on Europe.

EAT A CARROT

Two or three years ago the papers printed striking pictures of a family, headed by an eccentric intellectual, whose members were living entirely on garden vegetables raised by themselves. The chief vegetable in their garden was the humble carrot. And it was astonishing how healthy and vigorous those carrot-fed children seemed to be.

Such things are less surprising now. Carrots seem to be supplanting spinach in health-giving potency. They are said to be packed with important vitamins, including one which enables people to see better at night, and which therefore appeals to motorists who have to do night driving. A new convert enthusiastically urges any driver setting out for a night journey to chew a carrot before starting, and to take some more with him.

So a carrot cult is growing up. We are likely to have carrots available in many forms. The nation may be deluged with carrot juice as it has been hertofore with tomato and pineapple juice. It seems to be a natural habit-former, too. Childern are said to like carrots because they are sweet, and millions of them may carry their addiction through life.

All of which is very fine. But suppose now that some propagandist starts pointing out the vitamineous merits of onions and garlic, which are likewise said to be great. Suppose you find your friends carrying garlic bulbs in their pockets or purses and surreptitiously munching them. What then?

The government is trying to protect American radio listeners from "propaganda," and that's all right; but what they most need to be protected from is commercial blah that blasts their ears off.

Mahatma Gandhi, who might be wiser than Hitler, says be believes that what is gained by the sword will be lost by the sword.

There is "a tide in the affairs of men" which brings fortune, and there's also a tide that merely strews the beach with dead fish.

If "war babies" continue soaring in the stock market, foreign countries will soon be calling us "Uncle Shylock" again.

If military authorites, as reported, don't want mules any more for war, that's all right with the mules.

Wholesale Prices Come Down After War Scare Hike

CHICAGO, Sept. 19—(AP)—Wholesale prices of food commodities showed substantial declines today from the peaks reached in the rush of "speculative hoarding" at the outbreak of Europe's war.

Prior to trading in wholesale markets today all but two of 16 important food items were lower than the war boom peaks. Two items, potatoes and wholesale pork loins, were lower. Grain prices have declined 5 to 10 per cent; potatoes 20 per cent; eggs 5 per cent; livestock 4 to 12 per cent; wholesale meats 4 to 33 per cent; sugar 25 per cent and coffee 5 per cent.

However, net gains from August 31 to date amount to 19 to 39 per cent in grains; eggs 12 per cent; butter 16 per cent; livestock 1 to 18 per cent; lard 54 per cent; sugar 13 per cent; flour 2 per cent and coffee 8 per cent.

Commodity market experts attributed the reaction of some prices to a let-up in speculative purchasing and realization that ample supplies of many commodities were available.

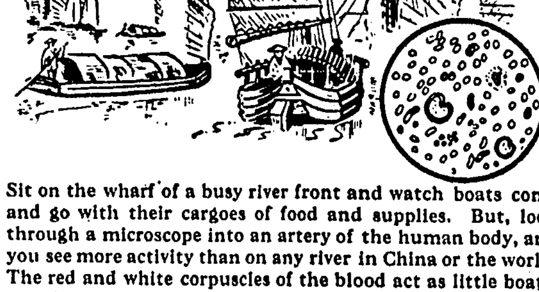
Rivers Teeming With Life



Sit on the wharf of a busy river front and watch boats come and go with their cargoes of food and supplies. But, look through a microscope into an artery of the human body, and you see more activity than on any river in China or the world. The red and white corpuscles of the blood act as little boats, carrying oxygen, nourishment and protection, to the most remote tissues of the body. The food you eat and the air you breathe must be distributed by these little ships.

Accumulated wastes of the body would soon poison you, if these little cell "boats" did not carry them through the veins to the lungs, kidneys and sweat glands, to be eliminated.

The "blood platelets," plasma and white cells of the blood constantly circulate, ready to pounce on the slightest pin prick, close it up and form a barricade against infection.

Keep these "rivers of life" in your body teeming with rich, healthy blood, filled with cell boats in good repair and carrying full cargoes.

Following the tradition of ages, Jews will gather in the Synagogue Friday evening, September 22, the eve of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the most solemn holy day in the Jewish calendar. It is a day of fasting and prayer which will last until sundown, Saturday, September 23.

All Jews, orthodox, conservative and liberal observe this one-day holy day.

Characteristic of the evening service that ushers in the holy day is the Kol Nidre chant whose origin is buried in the story of the past.

One of these festivals which was evolved from an ancient autumn harvest feast, Yom Kippur was marked with great ceremony in the days of the second temple. A week was spent in preparation for the services, which were conducted only by the High Priest of Israel. Jews from all parts of the world made a pilgrimage to the temple in Jerusalem in order to partcipate in this ceremony of fasting and prayer for a New Year of life.

After the detsruction of the second Temple, there was no longer a central place at which special ceremonies were held. But in synagogues wherever Jews were settled, the prayers that had made up the temple services were recited. Each individual said his own prayer asking for forgiveness and for another year of good life.

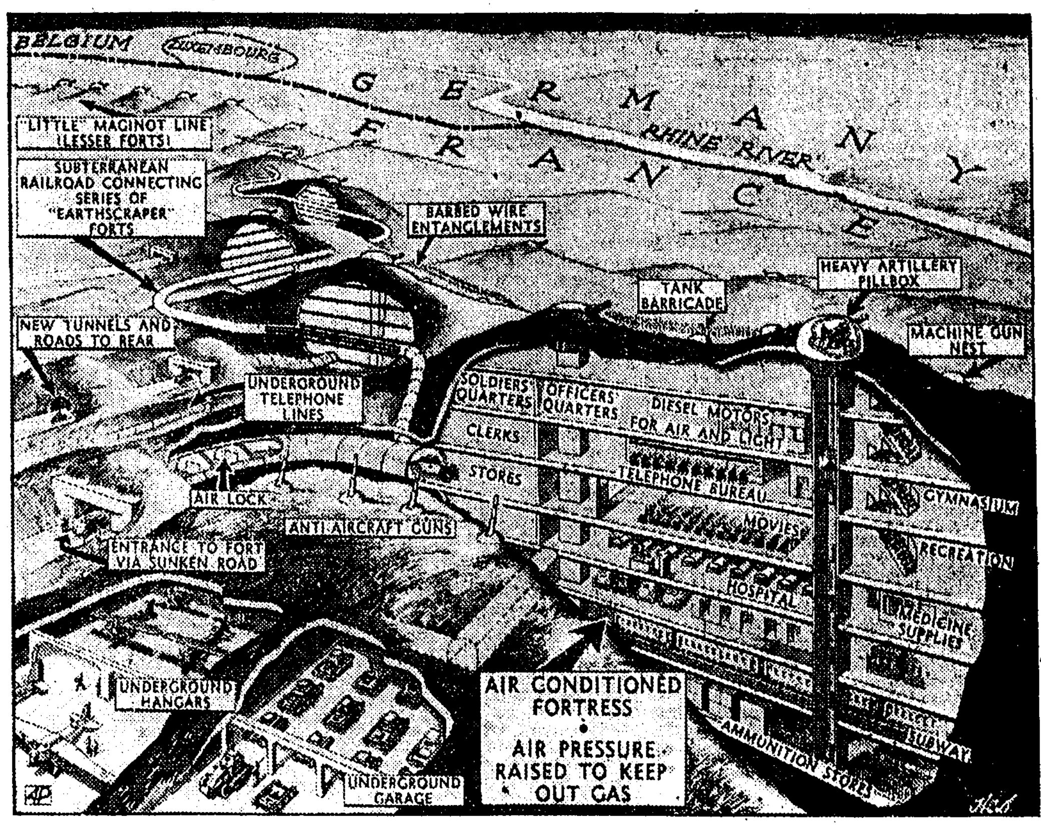
THE GREATEST FORT GETS ITS BIGGEST TEST



(By The AP Feature Service)

The greatest fortification in the world is the 200-mile French maginot line.

Second greatest is the German Siegfried line (also called Limes line or West Wall).

The two walls are roughly 12 miles apart as they follow the Franco-German land border from the Rhine to Luxemberg. Along the Rhine, the lines are close to the water's edge.

This cross-section drawing, by H. C. Detje, AP staff artist, is based on the best available information about the Maginot line.

Says the National Geographic Society:

"In the subterranean 'barracks' of the French fortifications hundreds of thousands of men may live for several months. Adapted to the terrain of the country, these buried chambers and galleries contain power stations, control posts, storerooms, elevators, narrow gauge railways, hospitals, and living quarters equipped with bunks, food supplies, radios, kitchens and even amusement facilities."

Besides terrifically powerful ground-attack defenses, both French and German lines have anti-aircraft guns capable of spraying air with a wall of shell fragments more than half a mile deep.

Second Test In Bazette Section Starts Drilling

Surface casing was set Wednesday and actual drilling was scheduled to start about noon Thursday on the Topaz Oil Company and Butler-Calhoun No. 2 Tramel in the A. C. Kyser survey in the North Bazette sector, local parties interested in the well announced today.

The new test is 660 feet south 25 degrees west of the original producer brought in several days ago. No other tests have been announced for the area yet, with the belief general that development will be delayed pending the outcome of the offset well.

Corsicana owners anticipated completion of the well about Monday night or Tuesday of next week.

It was stated no allowable had yet been received for the No. 1 Tramel and it was being flowed just enough to keep in good condition.

MACKENZIE

but the thing cut a lot deeper than that.

To Redeem Europe From Fear

"Our general purpose in this struggle is well known," he said. "It is to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and their liberties."

That's plain language and it covers more ground than a man would want to plow in a day. But it is a long way from telling the entire story.

It becomes increasingly clear that the British empire has been put on the spot.

Not only is Britain Herr Hitler's chief target, but it is being potted at by other countries as well. France, of course, is sharing England's trials, but the prize scalp sought is John Bull's. The boys have ganged on him.

So far as concerns Europe, the main engagement is between Germany and Britain. Or, to be more accurate, it is between Britain and Hitler, the individual, together with the Hitlerian doctrine which we know as Nazilism.

One naturally doesn't mean to dissociate France from all this. The French empire and European influence also has been challenged, and she stands with England. But we are talking about the one the gang is gunning for in particular—John Bull.

Russian Action Severe Blow

England's troubles aren't confined to Hitler. Russia's newborn brotherhood (or is it?) with Germany, and the co-operation between these two great powers, have in effect been a heavy blow to Britain, and to France as well.

This Nazi-Communist cloudburst has driven all the smaller nations of eastern Europe and the Balkans scurring to cover. They are afraid of Germany, or of Russia, or of both. England's efforts to put her finger on her small friends is like trying to catch a flea.

Again—until the Polish crisis got hot, Mussolini was challenging Britain's domination of the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal—lifeline of the British Empire—and Hitler himself has been quietly reaching for the Mediterranean.

The Berlin-Rome axis also was striking heavily at British influence in the near east, especially among the Arab peoples, and in Africa.

Out in the far east, where England has been a power for long generations, Japan is driving hard to oust the British from their position of vast influence in China. Britain's war committments in Europe are helping Nippon.

In short the whole British empire is on the firing line.

A significant suggestion of this position cropped up the first of the week when the German radio repeatedly made the following remarkable assertion:

"The peoples of Africa and Asia now dominated by England await the day of final settlement of their score with the British empire."

The assassination of Rumanian Premier Calinescu in Bucharest this afternoon removes the most forceful defender, apart from King Carol, against trespass on his country's independence in the European conflict.

While the meaning of his death is not yet clear, Rumania's prayer at this critical moment most certainly must be that the assassination won't bring about outside intervention on the grounds that disorder prevails in the country.

Rumania has been tense since the German invasion of Poland, and doubly tense as the result of Russia's occupation of eastern Poland.

FORMER SOLDIER ON TRIAL FOR KILLING TEXAS MERCHANT

HOLBROOK, Ariz., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The state rested its case yesterday against Leland King, 22-year-old former soldier, on trial for the murder of Walter Dickson, Spur, Texas, merchant.

The defense introduced preliminary testimony and planned to call King to the stand today to testify he fought with the 64-year-old merchant in self defense.

The prosecution based its case on admissions it alleged King made following his arrest at Portales, N. M., in a statement to officers, which was read to the jury, the former soldier was quoted as saying the fight resulted from a quarrel over a dice game.

Dickson, who had given King a ride from Texas, was found dying on the desert east of here July 17. A physician testified his death was due to exposure and that he had suffered a head injury.

Attorneys expected the case to reach the jury late today.

Suit Attacking Constitutionality Of Housing Act

DALLAS, Sept. 21.—(AP)— Trial of a suit attacking constitutionality of the federal housing program will be held here October 6.

The hearing was postponed from yesterday to give attorneys representing Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston housing authorities further time to prepare the defense case.

While the suit, filed by 51 Dallas property owners, is directed specifically at a $3,000,000 negro housing project here, attorneys said it might affect the F. H. A. program throughout the state.

New Equipment Is Received By Local Nat'l Guard Unit

Six new ton and a half four-wheel drive trucks were unloaded in Corsicana this week for use by National Guard units in this vicinity according to officers of local units. They were part of the Texas quota of 36 such units.

Two of the units have been assigned Battery E, 132nd Field Artillery, Texas National Guard; three will be kept by Battery D in Corsicana, and the sixth will be taken to Waco for use by an infantry organization.

Arrival of the extra trucks will enable the Corsicana regimental headquarters and firing batteries to move all personnel, baggage, and equipment without resort to other means of transportation, officers stated. They added the only need of the Corsicana units at present was an additional station wagon to aid in control of the truck column on long marches.

Built under war department specifications, the trucks are required to have a minimum speed of 2 1-2 miles per hour, and a maximum of 30, with a speed of 18 miles over very rough terrain.

CONGRESS MET IN EXTRA SESSION TO ACT ON NEUTRALITY

EFFORTS HAVE LINDBERGH TALK PRINTED IN CONGRESSIONAL RECORD BLOCKED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Congress met in extraordinary session today to begin consideration of America's neutfal course in a war-ravaged world.

White-haired Vice President Garner and stooping, broad-shouldered Speaker Bankhead rapped the senate and house to order shortly after 11 a. m. (CST), less than seven weeks after adjournment of the last regular session.

To capital veterans the scenes in both chambers, characterized by an atmosphere of extraordinary gravity, were reminiscent of the sessions of 25 years ago when, as now, the talk was all of "neutrality" and "keeping the United States out of war."

Unusual police precautions were taken. The house sergeant-at-arms reported heavy details of secret service and metropolitan police, both uniformed and in plain clothes, surrounded the capitol and were stationed at every entrance.

In the senate public galleries had been filled for an hour before the chamber convened.

Senators moved about the floor greeting friends and Senator Glass (D-Va), oldest member, smiled broadly as many gathered about his desk.

Then as Garner's gavel banged, quiet fell. After the prayer, reading of the president's proclamation followed.

In the house, where galleries filled slowly because of strict regulations governing admission to the chamber in anticipation of the president's appearance there to deliver his neutrality address, the proclamation was read first, followed by prayer.

A few minutes after the senate met Majority Leader Barkley moved a recess pending the joint session to hear the president. Before the motion could be acted upon Senator Tobey (R-NH) asked that a recent speech by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh advocating that this country stay out of war be inserted in the congressional record.

Tobey's unexpected proposal drew a prompt and firm objection from Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee.

After Tobey's request had been blocked by Pittman, the senate recessed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Secretary Hull asserted today lifting of the arms embargo after the outbreak of war abroad would not be an unneutral act.

The state department chief, in a long statement at his press conference, said belligerents constantly changed their position during a war, and that a neutral could too.

Otherwise, he suggested, the belligerents would have all the rights and a neutral none.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Mayor Brantly Harris of Galveston, Tex., conferred today with government officials regarding the possible replacement of 400 coast artillerymen recently transferred from Fort Crockett, Galveston, to Puerto Rico.

The mayor said he was "more than pleased" over the prospects the Texas post would be regarrisoned to at least its former strength, if not increased.

Harris said he would leave tonight for Texas.

nouncer and interrupting the scheduled program.

Then one of them announced that Calinescu had been killed in a revolt.

Police rushed immediately to the scene of the shooting, where two of the alleged killers were arrested.

Meanwhile Rumanian authorities quickly clamped on rigid censorship until the facts were established.

Germans Seek Oil.

Diplomatic circles here had said an economic war over Rumanian oil was under way, with a German mission in Bucharest attempting to obtain vast quantities of the output for Germany's army and airforce.

(In Budapest the Rumanian legation reported that the Bucharest radio station shut down at 2:10 p. m., "after some minutes of wild, confused shouting" which could be heard over the microphone.

(The legation said in mid-afternoon it had been unable to reach the Bucharest foreign ministry by telephone up to that time.)

The radio announcement, which interrupted a musical program, gave no details.

Calinescu's campaign against the iron guard came to a head in the fall of 1938 and since then police have announced discovery of a half-dozen "revenge" plots against him.

On June 17, police said iron guardists planned to assassinate Calinescu and King Carol with hand grenades at a race track.

Calinescu was minister of interior in charge of police on Nov. 30, 1938, when Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, iron guard leader and so-called "little Hitler" of Rumania, was shot dead by guards "while attempting to escape" during a transfer from one prison to another, according to the official version.

Besides Codreanu, his fourteen chief aides also were shot. At that time there were reports iron guardists had taken an oath to assassinate Calinescu in revenge.

Despite the frequent reported discovery of such plots against him, the premier steadfastly refused to have a bodyguard.

It was said Calinescu told King Carol when the monarch begged him to employ guards:

"No man can escape his fate."

(In Budapest Rumanian legation sources reported there had been constant agitation throughout Rumania by iron guard members since the start of Germany's invasion of Poland. They said the news had been suppressed by the Bucharest government lest it lead to "complications" during the international crisis.

Complications Explained.

They explained the "complications" by pointing to assertions frequently made by Calinescu in the past that Nazi authorities in Berlin were supporting the iron guard directly.

The radio broke into a musical program to broadcast the brief announcement.

Rumanian police on several other occasions had reported discovery of iron guard plots against the premier as well as against King Carol.

Calinescu became head of the government March 7, 1939, succeeding the late Dr. Miron Cristea, patriarch of the Rumanian church, who had created a national government.

On June 17 police announced that iron guardists had planned to assassinate Calinescu as well as the King with hand grenades at a race track.

That plot was said to have been organized to avenge the death of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, iron guard leader who was killed in a reported attempt to escape prison on Nov. 30.

A small man with a big black monocle over a sightless left eye, Calinescu had been one of King Carol's mainstays in effecting governmental changes under which the King became a virtual dictator.

Calinescu was comparatively young for the premiership—46. He was educated in France. His first job was a minor judgeship. Then he was attorney for the Peasant party and later became prominent in parliament. His first government post was minister of education.

He became minister of the interior under the anti-semitic Octavian Goga Dec. 28, 1937, and kept the position under Cristea, later taking the additional post of war minister and vice-premier.

He lost the sight of one eye when he was 4 years old. A nurse mistook acid for eyewash.

MASS EVACUATION OF POLISH CITIZENS AHEAD OF RUSSIANS

VETERAN ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF MISERABLE EXODUS

(Elmer W. Peterson, correspondent-veteran of three wars, was assigned to the Warsaw Bureau of The Associated Press in July when it became evident that the Polish capital would become a center of European conflict. Before seeing journalistic service in the European war he had covered the Spanish civil war and the Japanese-Chinese war. He was born in Duluth, Minn., in 1903, is unmarried, and has traveled for six years in many parts of the world in quest of news for The Associated Press.)

By ELMER W. PETERSON

MUNKACS, Hungary, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Soviet Russian troops were reported only 15 miles from the Hungarian border today in their sweep across eastern Poland, moving forward without interruption on the heels of thousands of Polish soldiers and civilians.

The miserable human flood preceding the Red army continued to pour into Hungary, seeking sanctuary in the Carpathian mountains. It was estimated more than 30,000 Poles had reached Hungarian soil—and still they came.

Traveling over 50 miles of muddy and rain-puddled highways and roads branching through to three mountain passes, I witnessed the immigration. Hungary was the only southern refuge left, now that Russian troops have blockaded the Rumanian border.

I saw small children, some half-naked and all of them hungry. Some of them, separated from their parents, had been taken in hand by Hungarian peasant women. Grown men wept at the sight of these youngsters trooping along in the mud.

I saw blood-spattered trains, bullet-torn automobiles, and damaged military trucks — Polish military mementoes.

I saw women whose faces were white with fatigue.

Three weeks ago in Warsaw I saw the Polish army gathering in confident readiness to fight. Yesterday, after a 1,500-mile roundabout journey from the Polish capital, I saw a part of that same army in bedraggled retreat into a neutral country.

Many of the Polish troops I saw had not experienced actual conflict. Others had and their faces tightened when they spoke of it.

A shrug and: "What could we do against so many airplanes, tanks and armored cars with only machine-guns?"

And seared in one officer's memory: "I saw hundreds of Polish soldiers killed - - - hundreds I tell you - - - trying to fight tanks and armored cars - - - trying to fight them with nothing but our bare hands."

BALKANS

many, Russia and Hungary with a none too friendly Bulgaria at her back.

Germany naturally looks toward the great Rumanian oil fields and her rich wheat harvests.

Russia never has taken her eyes from Bessarabia, taken from weakened Russia after the last war and given to Rumania by the allies. Bessarabia is one-seventh of the country.

Hungary looks hungrily at the territory of Transylvania, one-fifth of Rumania, taken from the once great, rich Magyar country.

Bulgaria, small and poor, lost 9,000 square miles to Rumania.

Altogether, Rumania got two-fifths of her territory from the allies' war victory. She long has been nervous about a possible day of reckoning if he rold enemies should rise in power. Hitler's dynamic progress toward control of Eastern Europe worried her.

Rumania still may steer a neutral course but she is vulnerable inside and out.

The four powers whose former land she got through war may seek to get it back.

Rumania Has Guarantee.

Rumania accepted a British-French guaranty of protection against "aggression"—which meant Germany. Poland had the same guaranty and today Germany and Russia occupy all but four points besieged and apparently destined to fall soon.

Against the darkness of this picture is King Carol's hope and aim to stay out of the war. He has won the support of the army and certainly he has gained favor with his people who once thought him weak. The kingship has steadied him and he early sought to stamp out the fascist or nazi movement that might try to stamp him out. Carol has about a million men under arms.

John Evans saw service in many cities of the world before returning to New York in 1936 to become foreign news editor of the Associated Press.

Since joining the AP staff in 1914, Evans worked along the Mexican border, handled various important assignments in Europe, and directed news coverage in Rome and in Paris for a number of years.

He was born in Des Moines, Ia., and started his newspaper career on the old Des' Moines Capital.

GERMANY

feeling applied to the other remaining islands of resistance.

Some 3,000 Poles were believed to be isolated on the Hela Peninsula.

In other quarters Germany's failure to strike a crushing blow at Warsaw so far was attributed to a policy of waiting on congress' action in Washington.

Propaganda Barrage

Interest on influencing the United States' decision whether or not to revise her neutrality legislation at the special session of congress brought the propagandists' batteries to the fore.

Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz brought into the open a German complaint, previously whispered in government circles, that Anthony Joseph Drexel Biddle, Jr., United States ambassador to Poland, was "serving British propaganda."

(The United States state department made public Sept. 13 two cablegrams from Biddle in which the ambassador reported witnessing German aerial bombardment of defenseless towns in Poland as well as military objectives).

Friendly German gestures toward France and Adolf Hitler's strategically-timed assurance to the world at Danzig Tuesday that the reich has no war aims against either France or Great Britain were counted on here to be a big influence in keeping United States neutrality airtight.

More Propaganda

The German press, meanwhile, warned the world to be prepared for what the Hamburger Fremdenblatt called "another British propaganda torpedo."

It said some such "torpedoes" already had been fired, one being the report that German army activity about Aachen had betrayed a plan to violate Belgian neutrality by attacking France through Belgium as Germany did in the world war.

Officials and the press denied there was any German menace to Belgium.

"Germany has reached her war objective," declared the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. "The west does not interest us.

"Of course; should someone attack us there we would defend ourselves as effectively as possible."

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The newspaper Berlingske Aftenavis today published a report from Moscow that German Zeppelin experts were going to the Soviet capital to negotiate for Zeppelin communications with Siberia whereby Germany would be supplied with important raw materials.

tal's citizens to persevere until a final victory had been won against the Germans.

Colonel Vaclava Lipinski described the battle in which he said Polish forces, particularly cavalry, drove back a German tank attack.

Center of City Bombed.

The radio said German aircraft made several raids over the center of Warsaw, especially in the neighborhoood of Pilsudski Square and the city's largest hotels, inflicting heavy casualties among women and children.

Seven German warplanes were said to have been shot down.

Mayor Starzinski said further damage had been inflicted in the royal palace and the national museum, the fine arts gallery, two grammar schools, the academy of physical culture, a theological seminary, a girls' college and many other schools had been destroyed by bombs. A broadcast last night had reported a Red Cross hospital set afire by incendiary bombs.

The mayor's instructions, warnings and reports to his populace indicated the hardships Warsaw was undergoing.

Warsaw butchers were notified to go to military headquarters to receive allotments of horse meat. The announcer said wounded horses would be butchered for the "near-starving million inhabitants" of the city.

Polish Leaders Executed

CERNAUTI, Rumania, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Reports of the execution of "some Polish leaders" reached the border from Poland yesterday.

Many were said to have been Ukrainians who held responsible positions in the former Warsaw government and who, therefore, were said to have been shot as traitors.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 21.—(AP)—authoritative sources said today the Rumanian government had decided to intern Polish President Ignace Moscicki, Foreign Minister Jozef Beck and other high civil officials as well as Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Polish commander.

All had crossed the frontier from Poland into Rumania.

Smigly-Rydz was interned yesterday and sent to enforced domicile at Cralova, near the junction of the Rumanian - Gulgarian frintiers.

Both Britain and France had appealed that he be allowed to leave the country, while Nazis insisted he be interned like any other soldier.

It also was reported reliably yesterday that, after a complaint to the Rumanian police by the German consul at Cernauti, General Josef Haller, founder of the Polish Legion in France during the World war, had been interned by Rumanian authorities.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., United States ambassador to Warsaw, arranged to leave tomorrow for Paris.

GENERAL WAR

might start important operations herself.

Polish Resistance Nears End.

Polish resistance in the east was nearly ended. German and Soviet Russian armies moved on to complete their conquest.

Warsaw remained in Polish hands, but the only fighting reported outside the Warsaw district was in small sections near the Baltic and in the southeast near Lwow.

Swiss predictions of major French operations were based on troop movements during the night behind the Maginot fortifications.

A French communique said there was "local activity by advance guards" on the west and "artillery action on both sides." France expected a major German offensive soon as the result of Nazi success against Poland.

Communiques of the German army high command said "Polish prisoners taken along the northern front increased to 170,000."

They claimed a total of more than 350,000 captured.

The communiques said eight enemy planes and three balloons had been shot down on the western front.

Soviets Near Frontier Hungary.

Russia's armies advanced through Poland toward the Hungarian frontier and reached Grodno, only 16 miles from the East Prussian border.

Well-informed Berlin sources attributed German's failure to deliver Warsaw a knockout blow to a desire to refrain from offending world opinion while the United States congress is considering neutrality problems.

A congress firmly united in wanting to keep the United States out of war gathered in Washington to hear a special message on neutrality from President Roosevelt. There was a sharp split, however, on how to keep out of war.

Administration leaders believed the president would win eventually in his desire for repeal of the present embargo on arms shipments to belligerents.

British Report Revolt.

The British information ministry said it had learned of a "serious revolt" in Bohemia and Moravia, provinces of Czecho-Slovakia which became a German protectorate last March.

German authorities denied trouble in that quarter, however, and offered to let newspapermen inspect the former Czeecho-Slovak regions.

A flood of Polish refugees continued to pour into Hungary before the advancing Soviet troops who already had cut off Poland's access to Rumania.

The Rumanian government announced the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu who suppressed the pro-Nazi Iron Guard organization.

Informed Bucharest sources said Rumania had decided to intern President Ignace Moscicki, Foreign Minister Josef Beck and other high Polish civilian officials who have taken refuge in Rumania Marshal Smidz-Rygly already has been interned.

Germany has pressed Rumania to intern Polish civilian as well as military officials Britain and France have argued for their freedom.

Believed Artillery Practice

FREDERIKSHAVEN, Denmark, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Information that Swedish artillery units had been practicing on a low island several miles south of Saroe Church offered a possible explanation today for the sounds of heavy cannonading that yesterday alarmed fisherfolk along the east coast of Jutland.

Some of those who heard the firing insisted, however, that the cannonading was too heavy to fit this explanation.

The sounds, they said, bore a strong resemblance to the thunder of heavy naval guns audible here during the famous world war battle of Jutland (May 31, 1916).

LEGION-AUXILIARY INSTALL OFFICERS AND HEAR ADDRESS

W. H. CRUSE TAKES OFFICE AS COMMANDER OF JOHNSON-WIGGINS POST

Officers of the Johnson-Wiggins Post, No. 22, American Legion, of Corsicana, the Stephen A. Graves Post, No. 307, of Kerens, and the American Legion Auxiliary were installed Tuesday night at the Legion Hall with Mrs. W. L. Patillo of Mexia, chairman of the Sixth District, conducting the installation ceremony of the auxiliary and C. A. Vaughn installing the American Legion officers for both the Corsicana and Kerens posts.

On the program preceding the installation ceremony was Mrs. Gladys Petrus, who sang two songs. She was accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Isabel Melton. Julius Jacobs made the principal address, choosing "Americanism" as his subject. He stated that no other organization in the United States could better exemplify the true principals of democracy than the American Legion. The American Legion bring men of all classes and distinction together on one level—men who face a common cause together, he said.

The speaker pointed out the unlimited benefits and privileges Americans enjoy and then compared these with the meager existence of the people of European and Asiatic nations. From the material standpoint, he stated, the United States possesses two-thirds of all the wealth in the world. The purchasing power of 131,000,000 Americans equal that of 500,000,000 Europeans and billions of Asiatics, he said. The United States produces 70 per cent of the total output of the world's petroleum, 60 per cent of the cotton and wheat, 50 per cent of the iron and copper, and 40 per cent of the lead and coal. Continuing, he stressed that the population of the United States represents only 7 per cent of the total population of the world, and yet we enjoy 60 per cent of all rail transportation of the world, 80 per cent of all motor vehicles, and then he cited figures comparing these facts with conditions in Europe. All of this, the speaker continued, is followed by great cultural and religious development of high standing.

Concluding, he said to be able to always retain the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, a state of vigilance must be maintained to protect these liberties and hand them down to posterity untarnished.

Officers installed in the Corsicana post included W. H. Cruse, post commander, who succeeded C. E. McWilliams; Gabe Goldberg, first vice commander; Fred Blucher, second vice commander; Wilbur Wright, finance officer; J. H. Bruner, adjutant; M. K. Riley, service officer; E. E. English, historian; J. B. Ingle, post chaplain, and H. T. Bray, sergeant at arms.

Officers installed in trhe Stephen A. Graves Post No. 307 of Kerens included Floyd Graves, post commander; R. D. Mabry, vice commander; E. H. Gray, historian; Jim Crowley, service officer; C. I. Coates, finance officer; Almer Carpenter, adjutant; Earl Seales, child welfare officer, and F. M. Fitzgerald, sergeant at arms.

Auxiliary officers included Marguerite Garitty, who succeeded Mrs. C. E. McWilliams as president; Mrs. W. H. Milam, first vice president; Mrs. C. A. Vaughn, second vice president; Mrs. A. M. Estes, chaplain; Mrs L. G. Haynes, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. G. Steele, historian; Mrs. T. Ford, sergeant at arms.

Visitors were Mrs. R. E. Ceromeanes, president of the Mexia Auxiliary, and Mrs. J. B. Cantrell, vice president of the Mexia Auxiliary.

At the conclusion of the program the Legion voted to go on record as favoring the establishment of an R. O. T. C. unit in the Corsicana High school and directed the president to send Congressman Luther A. Johnson a letter offering the full support of the local post in obtaining the unit.

CANADA SUMMONED TRAINED FLIERS FOR OVERSEAS ACTIVITY

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press)—Canada summoned trained fliers today for immediate overseas duty and launched organization of a volunteer expeditionary force of 32,000 men to be available in event they are needed in the European war.

At the same time the government ordered doubling of the naval personnel and construction of "a large number of anti-submarine craft" as additional measures of co-operation with Britain.

The defense ministry said the expeditionary force would consist of two war strength divisions of 16,000 men each.

They will be recruited by volunteers from the 50,000 men now under arms in Canada, the ministry explained. It was expected the first division would be ready for overseas service early in the new year.

Announcement of plans for expansion of the Dominion's naval forces disclosed that Canada has been co-operating with the British navy in defense of Canadian ports and in convoy work off the coast.

While Canada stepped up its war preparations, a naval dockyard commander in Halifax, N. S., issued a statement saying "fairly reliable reports indicated that a submarine may have been operating off the Nova Scotia coast."

A Canadian destroyer engaged in a search for the suspected submarine, the commander said, and dropped a depth bomb "in a suspicious area." The effect was not known.

PREVENTION COLDS WOULD SAVE LOSS OF MANY SCHOOL DAYS

AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—(Spl.)—Loss of hundreds of school days during the approaching school year could doubtless be saved with some advance home teaching in connection with prevention of colds and other respiratory infections, according to the Texas State Department of Health.

A considerable reduction would result in school time lost if parents would instruct children regarding proper use of the handkerchief. School children should be taught to cover the mouth and nose when coughing and sneezing. Both channels must be covered to prevent spread of infectious material.

The common cold virus is conveyed in secretions of the mouth and nose of infected persons. persons. Colds are the most common of the infectious diseases, out-numbering any of the other communicable diseases about twenty-five times, according to some estimates. Other diseases that are spread by respiratory discharges are influenza, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, smallpox, and meningitis.

The State Department of Health advises that school children go to bed at the first sign of a cold and tay there until at least twenty-four hours after the temperature is normal if there has been fever. At school, children who have recently had a cold should avoid conversing with others at close range, and should take care to use a handkerchief whenever they cough or sneeze.

Because of the complications of the common cold, it is a disease of major importance; among possible complications are sinus infection, middle ear and mastoid infection, throat infection, bronchitis, and pneumonia.

CHAMBERLAIN TELLS HOUSE OF COMMONS WAR BE PROSECUTED

AR PURPOSE IS TO REDEEM ROPE FROM PERPETUAL R GERMAN AGGRESSION

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared today no threats could deter Britain and her allies from achieving their war aims that "what we will not do is to rush into adventures that offer little prospect of success."

With the obvious purpose of allaying public anxiety as to whether the western allies were striking vigorously enough against Germany, Chamberlain declared in the house of commons:

"There is no sacrifice from which we will shrink. There is no operation we will not undertake provided our responsible advisers, our allies and we ourselves are convinced that it will make an appropriate contribution to victory."

After the prime minister had spoken, Arthur Greenwood, leader of the laborite opposition, declared Soviet Russia, by marching into Poland, had become an aggressor.

"It is a matter of very deep regret that Poland was not provided more generously with sorely needed assistance," he said.

Replying to Hitler's Danzig speech yesterday Chamberlain said Britain's general war purpose was to 'redeem Europe from the perpetual fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and liberties."

He added "no threats will deter us or our French allies from this purpose."

He declared against uncertain adventures "calculated to impair our resources and to postpone ultimate victory."

"Ont lesson which military history teaches is that the road leads to disaster," he said.

Strategy, Chamberlain went on, is "the art of concentrating decisive force at the decisive point at the decisive moment."

He said he would "not hazard a guess at this stage of the war as to when or where the decisive force will be assembled or when the decisive moment will arrive."

He said this must depend upon events and added:

"The scale of our preparations and the fact already announced that we are basing them on the assumption that duration of the war may be at least three years insures that our strength will increase progressively to meet whatever may come."

"Herr Hitler says much in his speech about the humane methods with which he has waged war," Chamberlain continued.

"I can only say that methods are not made humane by calling them so and that accounts of German bombing of open towns and machine-gunning of refugees have shocked the whole world."

It was the prime minister's third weekly report on the conflict.

He announced the government calculated 139 British and neutral lives had been lost so far from submarine attacks, excluding the sinking of the aircraft carrier Courageous, and that an additional 44 persons were reported missing. The admiralty reported 578 missing from the Courageous.

Refers to Russia

Chamberlain told the house of commons "it is still too early to pronounce any final verdict" on what he termed Soviet Russia's "cynical attack" on Poland.

He also declared Adolf Hitler's speech at Danzig yesterday "does not change the situation with which we are confronted."

With Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky leaning forward from the gallery, Chamberlain declared that for Poland, "the unhappy victim" of Russia's attack, "the result has been a tragedy of the grimmest character."

Chamberlain said despite the fact Britain and France had been unable to save Poland from defeat "they have assured her that they have not forgotten their obligations to her nor weakened in their determination to carry on the struggle.'

He then declared the navy's anti-submarine campaign in two weeks had achieved more results than were accomplished over much longer periods in the last war" and added "already six or seven submarines have paid the full penalty."

U-Boat Crews Captured

In some cases, the prime minister said, "crews of U-boats have been captured."

Chamberlain asserted "it is already clear that the navy and merchant marine will be able to maintain essential supplies of raw materials and food for this country."

Dealing with Hitler's speech, Chamberlain said:

"It is not our way in this country to speak with boasts and threats.

"I have only one general comment to make. Our general purpose in this struggle is well known. It is to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and their liberties.

"No threats will deter us or our French allies from this purpose."

Chamberlain said Hitler's "misstatements of fact" included his declaration that France agreed to Italian mediation while Britain refused it. The prime minister said a new white paper would be issued tomorrow "so that public opinion may have no difficulty in forming its final judgments.

"Hitler says much in his speech about the humane methods with which he has waged war.

Did Not Seek War

"I can only say that methods are not made humane by calling them so and that accounts of German bombing of open towns and machine-gunning of refugees have shocked the whole world.

"'The British government did not seek this war but their hopes were shattered by the unprovoked and brutal agression of Germany upon our Polish allies.'"

Chamberlain said on the western front "valuable strategic and tactical objectives have been secured by the French and ground gained has been held in the face of increasingly severe German resistance."

Of the war at sea Chamberlain said there had been "intense and continual naval activity, mainly in the form of attacks on U-boats carried out by destroyers, small craft and the fleet air arm acting under cover of the main fleet and squadrons."

These attacks, he declared, had been made "night and day." He continued:

"The great difference between the last war and this one is that, whereas in the last war we were on the defensive against the U-boat campaign, we are now carrying out an offensive against the U-boats.

Earlier Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, said there was "every reason to believe" that the submarine which sank the aircraft carrier Courageous Sunday had been sunk subsequently.

The prime minister said that the April, 1917, peak of submarine warfare in the world war, average weekly sinkings of British shipping amounted to 127,000 tons, or 39 ships.

"During the week ended September 12 this year it was 95,000 tons, or 17 ships, and for the week ended September 19 it was 45,848 tons, or 13 ships."

"The primary aim of British policy at sea is to destroy or render ineffective warships of the enemy, to prevent the enemy from augmenting their warlike resources from overseas and at the same time protect our own and neutral commerce," the prime minister said.

"The suppression of traffic in contraband of war must of necessity cause some inconvenience to neutrals. It is our intention to reduce this to a minimum."

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—With authoritative quarters reiterating a determined "no" to any Nazi peace offer, members of parliament gathered today to hear Prime Minister Chamberlain in the third of his reports on the European war.

Chamberlain's statement to the house of commons was expected to touch on Adolf Hitler's Danzig speech yesterday which a British communique already had discribed as "full of crass missstatements."

Parliamentary interest, however, centered on the prospective announcement by the prime minister of the British attitude toward the Soviet Russian invasion of Poland.

A statement paralleling Chamberlain's was to be made by Lord Stanhope, lord president of the council, in the house of lords.

The admittedly dark picture appeared to have strengthened British determination to wage a finish fight to destroy "Hitlerism" as Chamberlain himself has put it repeatedly.

Virtual collapse of Britain's ally, Poland, under the double invasion—from Germany on the west and Russia on the east—and the torpedoing of the aircraft carrier Courageous Monday with a loss of perhaps 578 men were chalked up as outstanding initial successes by the Nazis.

The British still thrilled to tales of heroism brought ashore from the Courageous by the 682 survivors. They told how Captain W. Tammakeig-Jones stood at salute on the bridge of the ship, facing her white ensign fluttering astern, as she sank.

Tammakeig-Jones' name was not among those which the admiralty said "from all the information available must be regarded as the final list of survivors from H. M. S. Courageous." Among the 578 not accounted for were 17 other officers; the remainder were seamen.

Some Consolation,

The British found some consolation in the admiralty's original announcement that the Courageous' attacker was "heavily attacked by destroyers and is believed to have been sunk."

(A communique from the German high command indicated, however, the submarine had escaped. The communique said the sinking of the aircraft carrier "was confirmed by a report of the German submarine which attacked the carrier.")

The air ministry's first causalty list was issued last night—17 officers and men missing. Only one was listed as "believed killed." Three were "believed prisoners of war," and the others were classified merely as "missing."

The British communique in reply to Hitler's Danzig speech undertook step by step to answer his charges of British responsibility in the war and declared there was "no question of Great Britain waging war, as Herr Hitler declares, on German women and children.

"Herr Hitler's account of the circumstances attending the outbreak of war is a traversity of the facts. He was determined on war and hoped to the last that Great Britain would not fulfill her treaty obligations to Poland. x x x"

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—It was reported authoritatively today the United States freighters Saccarappa and Shickshinny had been searched by the British for war contraband and part of their cargoes confiscated. The nature of the cargoes was not disclosed.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Chicago Daily News, in a copyrighted dispatch from London, said today Kermit Roosevelt, son of President Theodore Roosevelt and former vice president of the United States Lines, would serve the allies in the war as an official in the British ministry of shipping.

Roosevelt is in London, the dispatch said, and today is expected to have his nationality changed by special order, making him a British citizen. As an American he legally could not accept a position with the British government in wartime.

SOVIET RUSSIANS STRENGTHEN HOLD ON EAST POLAND

REPORTED SEIZURE GRODNO MARKS RUSSIAN ADVANCE OF 135 MILES

MOSCOW, Sept 21.—(AP)—Soviet Russian forces strengthened their hold on Eastern Poland today as communiques reported new advances by the Red army along a wide front.

In the north, the Soviet high command announced, Russian troops occupied Grodno, 16 miles from the East Prusisan border and 90 miles southwest of Wilno (Vilna.)

In the south, Red troops were reported in possession of Kovel, Ukranian village 100 miles north of Lwow, Poland's third largest city. Occupation of both Wilno and Lwow was announced in previous communiques.

(German reports said the Poles were still resisting in and around Lwow.)

The reported seizure of Grodno marks a Russian advance of approximately 135 miles into Poland.

The Russian communique made no mention of resistance encountered in the latest advances, but estimated more than 60,000 Polish troops had been captured in the four days since the Soviet army crossed the frontier.

War materials seized by the Russians was reported to include 280 pieces of artillery and 120 airplanes.

BUCHAREST, Seept. 21.—(AP)—American authorities were expected today to take diplomatic action probably in Moscow, to obtain release of William Morton, United States vice consul in Warsaw, caught on the Polish side of the Dnister river during the Soviet Russian occupation.

Morton was unable to leave Zaleszczyki, Polish frontier town, because of restrictions imposed by Russian army officials.

Richard Mowrer, correspondent for the Chicago Daily News who escaped Tuesday night, made a full report to Franklin Mott Gunther, American minister, here today.

EUROPEAN WAR WILL BRING HIGH PRICES, INCREASED WAGES

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The European war will bring higher prices and increased wages to American workers, leading retailers said today in a survey made public by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

A majority of the 100 representative stores polled to get a cross section said they believed the stores could and should "take active part in keeping the United States neutral and free from involvement in war."

Other opinions and predictions expressed included:

There will be no marked depression at the outset as was true here in 1914.

Over a period of time U. S. business will be sharply accelerated by heavy demands for American products.

That demand will increase domestic price levels but to a lesser extent than during the world war.

Development of new import markets to replace those lost in Europe will be less important America is more self-sufficient. Few problems will arise from shutting off of imports.

Flying Boats Rescued Crew Sunken Steamer

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The British government announced today two Royal Air force flying patrol boats had rescued the crew of 34 of the steamship Kensington Court, which sent out an SOS after having been attacked by a submarine.

A ministry of information announcement said the rescue, somewhere in the Atlantic ocean, was the first case in which an entire ship's crew had been picked up at sea by flying boats.

The Kensington Court was a 4,863-ton vessel, owned by the Court line. London was her port of registry.

The ministry's announcement said the flying boats, responding to an S. O. S., arrived alongside a lifeboat from the Kensington court 10 minutes before the steamer sank.

The announcement added:

"The pilots saw a tiny boat crowded with men while others were in the sea clinging to the sides.

"While one flying boat kept watch from the air the other came down on the water alongside the overloaded lifeboat. Fourteen of the men, some in a desperate condition, were pulled into the aircraft. When it had taken off with the heavy load, the other aircraft descended and picked up 20 more men.

"The two aircraft made a quick search for the attacking submarine but it was not located. The steamer crew said one of their two lifeboats had captized and the other was in danger of sinking."

Federal Reserve Banks Reducing US Bonds Discount

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today that six of the twelve federal reserve banks had reduced their discount rate for government bonds in an apparent effort to discourage selling of the bonds by banks.

The reductions—from 1 1-2 to 1 per cent—was made by the Federal Reserve Banks of Boston, Atlanta, Kansas City, Dallas, Chicago and St. Louis.

HEALTH, BEAUTY AND POISE

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR PERSONALITY

By VERONICA DENGEL

MINERAL FOODS FOR THE SKIN

Veronica Dengel

Recently we discussed the causes of pimples and blotches and found that diet had a great deal to do with skin beauty. Today I want to tell you about the various food elements that are particularly valuable for their content of the essential minerels required for feeding of the skin. These minerals will insure that perfect glow of 'beauty from within' which is so good a foundation for our surface cosmetics. After all, our powders and rouges are meant to enhance and accent our good looks; but they should not be used to cover up the faulty conditions that result from bad eating habits, faulty eliminations, and insufficient supplies of water—internally and externally—as well as sun, exercise, fresh air, and sleep.

The body is made up of 16 different chemical elements and we replenish the supply, as it is consumed by our activities, by means of foods which contain these various elements. To be sure, all foods contain them in some degree, but some foods are far more valuable for this purpose than others. At this time we shall discuss the ones which are important to the skin, always remembering that Vitamin D—the sunshine vitamin—is vital to the proper assimilation of these minerals.

Sulphur is very important for a lovely complexion. This mineral also aids digestion, and is a cleanser and eliminator of toxic material. Sulphur foods include onions, cauliflower, chestnuts, raw cabbage, Brussels sprouts, raw egg-yolk, shrimps, radishes, tomatoes, celery, kohlrabi, turnips, cucumbers, coconuts.

Iodine, too, is valuable for skin beauty as well as for the protection of the hair coloring. Iodine is truly the 'beauty chemical of the body' and quite deservedly so. It is found abundantly in sea-greens, dulce, kelp, lobster, shrimp, crabs, pineapple, pears, oysters, salmon, cod-liver oil, garlic, artichoke, onions, mushrooms, strawberries, egg-yolk, spinach and beets.

Another necessary mineral about which we do not hear very much is Silicon. This helps to keep the skin resilient and aids in the prevention of wrinkles. It is found mostly in oats (whole grained, of course, apples, asparagus, celery, beets, leafy greens, cherries, whole grained cereals, cabbage, endive, almonds, figs, peaches, nuts, grapes, barley.

As you can see, there are some foods which contain all three of these much-needed minerals. It should be very easy for you to plan to include several of these foods in your daily menu. And soon a clearer, finer skin will be yours.

Roosevelt Highlights

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Highlights of President Roosevelt's message on neutrality:

Regardless of party or section the mantle of peace and of patriotism is wide enough for us all. Let no group assume the exclusive label of the peace "bloc." We all belong to it.

This government must lose no time or effort to keep the nation from being drawn into the war. In my candid judgment we shall succeed in these efforts.

I regret that congress passed that (the neutrality) act. I regret equally that I signed it.

These perilous days demand co-operation between us without trace of partisanship. Our acts must be guided by one single hardheaded thought—keeping America out of war.

The facts compel my stating, with candor, that darker periods may lie ahead.

The peace, the integrity and the safety of the Americas — these must be kept firm and serene.

Fair Directors Met Thursday In Final Conference

Directors of the Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural Show held their last regular meeting Thursday morning prior to the staging of the second annual exposition on October 3-7 and ended their session with an optimistic forecast for the season ahead.

The directors authorized the sale of a season gate admission which entitles the bearer to admission to the grounds daily for a prive of 50 cents, a saving of one-third the individual rate.

Numerous changes in the set-up and grounds arrangement were checked over and it was indicated many of the kinks in the presentation of the inaugural season had been eliminated, and officials were prepared to offer a "streamlined" show with largest exhibits in every department.

WAR STOCKS AWAKE FINALLY THURSDAY AND MAKE ADVANCE

MANY ISSUES GAINED AS MUCH AS THREE POINTS; FEW GAINED FIVE

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—War stocks napped for a while in today's market but eventually awakened and stepped out for a sprint that put many up as much as 3 points at the best. Isolated gains of 5 or so were noted.

Prices were spotty in the forenoon, with the turnover the first two hours the smallest since the boom got under way nearly three weeks ago.

Speculative forces had their ears to the ground, however, and, just after mid-day, when rumors were heard in board rooms of a "leak" at Washington indicating repeal of the arms embargo was "in the bag," buyers hit the list from all sides and quotations soon mounted to peak levels of the day.

For a brief interval the ticker tape fell 2 minutes behind. Subsequently there were frequent slowdowns and pickups in activity. Renewed hesitancy was evident near the close and final advances were well trimmed in many cases. Transfers were around 1,700,000 shares.

Rail equipments were strong all day, even when other groups were marking time. Aircrafts and farm machinery issues also were in demand. Steels, under water for a while, came back smartly on the noon bulge.

News from European fronts, including assassination of the anti-nazi Rumanian premier, seemingly tended to confirm the ideas of several financial observers that a short war was hardly likely.

Business and industrial prospects at home, it was believed, contributed one of the main market props. Especially cheering were last week's freight loadings figures, issued today, disclosing a much more than seasonal jump to above the 800,000-mark for the first time since Oct. 16, 1937. Expanding steel production and higher prices for woolens, rayon and other staples were viewed as hopeful indications.

Additional Rural Electric Lines Are Being Energized

The superintendent said the section D project which includes many taps and extensions of present service systems was now in Washington for final approval by national officials.

He said service was being jeopardized on some units by failure of members to complete their home installations.

GERMAN SUPREME HIGH COMMAND IN POLISH STATEMENT

RUSSIA AND GERMANY HAVE AGREED UPON DISMEMBERMENT OF POLISH NATION

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The supreme high command disclosed today Germany and Soviet Russia had reached an agreement on the partition of Poland, at least so far as their armies of occupation are concerned.

That the demarcation line has been set was announced in a high command communique which, however, did not say where the line runs.

It asserted the German forces would withdraw from their present positions after "destruction of the last remnants of the Polish army there" to the "demarcation line definitely fixed between the German and Russian governments."

Whether this line lies east or west of Warsaw was not indicated. The communique said German forces have advanced to a line running from Stryj, in Southeast Poland, north near the industrial city of Lwow, thence almost straight north to Brzesc (Brest-Litovsk), about 160 miles from the Soviet frontier and up to Bailystok, about 150 miles from the Russian border.

The entire Rumanian frontier, bordering Southeast Poland, is in Russian hands.

Presumably as the Germans retire, the Red army will take their place by advancing westward from their present positions. Whether the army occupation areas later will become the new boundaries between Germany and Russia was a moot question.

Germany's "blitzkrieg" (lightning war) was considered here at an end except for mopping up activities in Poland. The Poles, however, were still fighting in and south of the fortified town of Modlin, immediately north of Warsaw. Warsaw itself also has not capitulated.

The handful of Polish troops who gave the Germans some trouble yesterday on the heights back of Gdynia gave up last night.

Several thousand prisoners were reported taken.

The battle north of Lodz by Kutno and the Bzura river, about 65 miles west of Warsaw, which ended yesterday, was termed by the high command "one of the biggest destructive battles of all times."

The number of captives was reported at 105,000 and still growing. the amount of war materials seized was said to be enormous.

The high command communique again today paid scant attention to the western front, asserting operations theer were limited and of a scouting nature.

ROME, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia today urged Adolf Hitler's adversaries to accept what it called his offer of a limit on Germany's expansion and end the European war.

CORSICANA DADS CLUB DISCUSSES SCHOOL MATTERS

ATHLETICS, BANDS, VOCATIONAL AGICULTURE AND PEP SQUAD TOUCHED UPON

An interesting and varied program outlining many phases of the work of the senior high school was presented before the Corsicana Dads club Tuesday evening under the direction of O. P. Douglas, principal. Athletics in the high school, junior high and ward schools were discussed along with bands, vocational agriculture and pep squad.

Fred V. Blucher, president, stated at the beginning of the meeting that the club was organized to assist the school, faculty and community, and appealed to the Dads for co-operation during the ensuing term to make the club's program a success.

Boyce Martin, vice president and chairman of the program committee, stated school programs would be presented during the year at the various schools. The October meeting will be held at the junior high school with O. F. llen, principal in charge.

Principal Douglas presented Herbert L. Hill, new band director, a product of Corsicana High and Hardin-Simmons college, who outlined his band instruction schedule per day. He plans to organize a junior high school band and saxtette classes in the ward schools. Several selections were rendered by the band.

Pep Squad Matters.

Mrs. Jack McKinney, one of the pep squad sponsors, presented the cheer leaders and drum majors who conducted cheer practice and went through numerous exercises. Mrs. McKinney introduced C. C. McClung who has worked with the pep squad, and credited Paul Moore, sports writer of the Sun, with an article that challenged the high school girls into reporting for the fine pep squad.

Dan Cunningham, pep squad captain, thanked the Dads for helping them and offered to cooperate with the Dads in any undertaking.

The cheer leaders are Jep Rice, Elizabeth Beavers, Joyce Parker and Joe Daniels.

The drum majors are Dan Cunningham, captain; Peggy Gordon, Alice Tatum, Sue Frances Gordon, Vera Katherine Belt, Jennie Ree Hays, Anna Mae Slay and Suzette McKinney, majorette.

President Blucher said the batons underwritten by the Dads club, had been paid for from the proceeds of the entertainment sponsored by the pep squad. A financial statement revealed "$67.56 now in the club treasury. Henry Levy, membership chairman, said 65 had paid dues this year at the first meeting. A campaign for members was inaugurated.

Pierce Speaks Words of Praise.

John Pierce, head football coach credited the club as being one of the main reasons for the revival in interest in athletics at the high school, in the band, pep squad and in the school. He said the interest of the dads had heightened the interest of the students.

The grid mentor said there were 83 boys in uniform at the senior high school, and declared that if the club won another gall game or two, it looked like all the boys would want to come out for football. There are 55 in football training at the junior high school under the direction of Coach T. E. Stone who was credited with doing a fine job. L. W. Brooks has organized the ward schools for football. The coach declared that the Corsicana boys always behaved themselves on the football trips, and spoke of the educational advantages received by boys making football trips, etc.

"We are looking for plenty of competition Friday night from Ennis," Pierce continued, and referred to the fact that nine of the starters of last year are back at the Ellis county high school.

"My boys will be ready for them" Pierce declared, and spoke of ample strength. He complimented the quarterbacking of Jim Taylor. He referred to Elliott Beale, of Corbet, and stated the boys from the outlying districts were playing good football and complimented their desire to play and termed them "smart boys."

Assistant Coaches.

Pete Allen and Woodrow Wilson, assistant coaches, were introduced. Johnny Hall, backfield coach, was absent.

L. W. Brooks, in charge of ward school activities, said boys ineligible or over-age at the high school were coaching the ward schools. He outlined some of the rules of elementary school football, and said games would be played at Tiger field on Tuesday afternoons. The Dads club is furnishing the jerseys and helmets for these boys. Brooks said it was planned to play some outside teams during the season.

R. L. Barron, vocational agriculture teacher, spoke of his work after Principal Douglas had stated the school board had added this department as about 25 per cent of the student body was transfers from outside the city limits.

Barron said the vocational agriculture movement started in 1917 and now there are 200,000 students. He said in vocational agriculture no experimenting is done, but the advantage of experiment stations and experience of farmers is conveyed to the students.

The three years work including pruning, grafting, terracing, culling poultry, betterment of livestock and its care and farm management and marketing was discussed,

BENGALS LOOK FAR STRONGER TRAINING FOR ELLIS ELEVEN

RIVAL BANDS AND THE PEP SQUADS WILL SUPPLEMENT GRIDIRON RIVALRY

Corsicana Bengals went through tough workouts Tuesday afternoon as they continued to prepare for the invasion of the Ennis Lions here Friday night at Tiger field. This will be the first home game of the season for the Junglebeasts and they looked more powerful and potent in scrimmage sessions Tuesday than at any previous practice period of the current year.

Realizing that the Ennis club has the strongest lineup in the history of this Ellis county combination, the Bengals this week have forgotten about the Highland Park fracas and are down to business preparing to stop the Ellis countians, and prevent the opening tussle being spoiled by a loss.

Ennis Strong Club.

Ennis is a class A club, but has plenty of good players and is generally regarded as strong or stronger than the average run of AA combinations.

Nothing would suit the Ennis team and supporters better than a victory over Corsicana, and fans can recall some close contests between these two clubs in years past.

If the practice sessions are to be taken into consideration, the Lions will bump into a tougher and better ball club Friday night than the one that opened the season with the Highland Park Highlanders in Dallas.

While the mentors are training their charges for the battle, other departments to be on the program are also working hard.

Both Have Fine Bands.

Reports from Ennis that the band and pep squad will be a great spectacle has also brought to mind to those who went to Dallas that the Corsicana band and pep squad drills were exceptionally fine, so another contest will be had with Ennis in that department.

Jimmie Sims, Ennis drum major, will lead that combination. Jimmie is the state and national contest winner. Assistant drum majors will be Chuck Benight and Douglas Redden.

The Ennis school colors are maroon and white.

T. B. Granger is the band director of the classy 75-piece band while the cheer leaders are George Bolen, Frank Barnett, June Williams and Cleo O'Neal.

The Bengals went through their final tough scrimmages Wednesday afternoon and light signal drills will be the order of the day Thursday afternoon.

The rival coaches have not indicated their starting lineups.

ACTUAL INVASION PICTURES OF POLISH WAR HERE THIS WEEK

Terry McCary, manager of the local theaters, announces that the first showing of actual scenes of the German invasion of Poland will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theater in connection with the Bing Crosby picture and the March of Time release.

It is stated that the Paramount News reel shows the German army's march into Poland, the bombing of Cracow by German planes, the shelling of Westerplatte by the German cruiser Schleswig-Holstein and other sensational first-run newsreel pictures that bring the European conflict right before the eyes of the public.

Holiday Planned County Schools First Day Fair

A movement was inaugurated Wednesday whereby it is expected that the students and teachers of the Navarro county schools will receive a holiday on October 3, the opening day of the Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural Show exhibitions, and will participate in the huge opening day parade.

J. C. Watson, Navarro county school superintendent, is in charge of the schools outside Corsicana to participate in the parade. Wednesday Watson dispatched a letter to the county teachers, calling attention to the opening day parade and suggested "with the permission of the school boards" that classes be dismissed that date in order that the school children could participate in the parade and attend the fair. School children are to be admitted free to the fair on that date, Watson pointed out.

The schools can enter decorated automobiles, bands, pep squads, athletic teams, etc. Another feature that will appeal to the school children is the clown contest whereby each participant will receive two passes to the Palace theater in addition to competing for a $5 cash prize.
